Welcome!

Do you know what I think says a lot about the quality of our soaps? The fact that an award-winning actress such as Maureen

Lipman CBE (yep, she even has a bit of bling from the Queen!), with five decades of screen and stage experience behind her, can join the cast of Corrie and be happy as Larry with the character she plays.

“We were honoured to meet Maureen...”

Not only that, but she loves the scripts she’s given and the co-stars she works with on the Street... “I really like that I get to work with a cast of all ages,” grins the 73-year-old. “And Evelyn is so in-your-face shocking – it’s great.” I’m sure Maureen doesn’t have to go out looking for work, so her choice to play the cobbles’ Evelyn says a lot about the soap. And the star doing Inside Soap the honour or coming along to our photo shoot to campaign for your vote in the Inside Soap Awards says even more about her. Your audience with Ms Lipman is on p48. Enjoy! Steven Murphy, Editor

HEARTB at Frank's

TRACY AND MEGAN FEAR NOBODY IS GOING TO PAY THEIR RESPECTS...

Megan vents her anger at the congregation

Sisters Vanessa and Tracy are united in their grief for Frank

REAK funeral

Tragic Frank's loved ones face more heartache at his emotionally charged funeral this week, as they finally learn the truth about his involvement in the fire that killed him. But while both Megan and Tracy now know Frank had nothing to do with the blaze, it seems the rest of the village will need some convincing.

With his former workmates and friends believing that Frank was up to no good when the fire broke out, as the funeral day dawns, it looks as if the family could be mourning Frank alone...

“Megan realises that Frank was the man she loved”

“Tracy is so upset, confused and emotional,” explains Amy Walsh, who plays the devastated daughter. “She really wants to give her dad a good send-off, but she keeps coming up against walls of people saying that they can’t come and telling her they won’t need a big venue for Frank’s wake, because no one will be there. She feels nobody is showing the care that they should.”

Even Frank’s partner Megan is struggling with whether to attend, until Tracy stumbles upon evidence that he was in the factory with good intentions. She finds the engagement ring that Frank had left in his locker and was planning to give to Megan before they were torn apart.

“Megan suddenly realises Frank was the man she loved when she sees the ring,” says Amy. “And what happened was an innocent act of love for her. It breaks her!”

With Megan now fully onboard with Tracy's theory that Frank played no part in starting the fire, the duo head to the church to honour Frank. But the service itself is fraught with a bad atmosphere.

"There's a real feeling of 'don't speak ill of the dead' even though Tracy has found the ring that she believes proves why he was in there," shares Amy. "She can't believe that people are stood outside the church and saying things. Tracy does bring that energy into the church and there are heightened emotions, but when she does her speech, she forgets all that stuff and tells everyone what a good man and good dad Frank was."

However, while Vanessa and the rest of the congregation are relieved that Tracy has kept the ceremony drama-free, they don't bargain on Megan. Fuelled by her own guilt and fury that she hasn't mourned Frank properly,

Trapped Tracy was saved from the blaze by Frank the grief-stricken girlfriend lets rip at those gathered.

"It all goes sour, and rightfully so!" reveals Amy. "Megan just can't hold back and so she speaks out, as she's now so hurt by people's reactions. She believes Frank's innocence too."

Viewers are aware that it was in fact Kerry and Amy who inadvertently caused the horrible accident, but the fight to clear Frank's name will go on.

"Tracy wants to prove his innocence and move forward," sighs Amy. "She refuses to believe the past three years were fake and that Frank didn't love them enough to stop his dodgy dealings, and risk everything. Tracy feels guilty that he died trying to save her and now she needs to know who started the fire. In her eyes, Frank died a hero, and she wants to prove that."

Kate White

"I need to push myself out of my comfort zone!"

The funeral drama this week sees Megan contemplating leaving the village for good. Whether Megan will have such a downbeat departure remains to be seen, but one thing that's certain is that actress Gaynor Faye (who plays her) has decided to leave Emmerdale after seven years, and her alter ego will head into the sunset at some point.

"It's hard to turn my back on Emmerdale – I love it," admits Gaynor. "But you have to be courageous in this world. It's a risk, but I need to push myself out of my comfort zone."

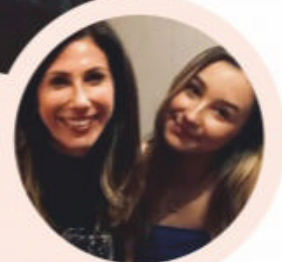

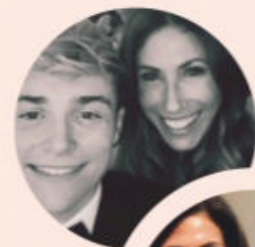

Gaynor plans to travel with her family, and then is heading to the theatre to appear in the stage version of Band Of Gold, the TV series written by her award-winning mum Kay Mellor.

"My son is about to finish school and we want to do some travelling before he leaves [for university]," explains the actress, who has two children, Oliver and Lily with her long-term partner Mark. "I doubt that we'll be backpacking, but we just want to get out there and see some of the world before he gets too busy."

While Gaynor will have plenty of soapie pals in the stage show – the play will also star ex-EastEnders Laurie Brett (Jane Beale) and Hollyoaks actor Kieron Richardson (Ste) – will the door be left open at Emmerdale for her to see her village cast mates again should she decide to reprise her Dales role?

"It would be nice if it was, but when you leave you understand there's a chance it won't be, and that's okay," she grins. "I believe in fate, so whatever is meant to be, will be."

Callum's stag night hell!

AFTER A SHOWDOWN WITH BEN,
HE COMES TO A BIG DECISION...

Groom-to-be Callum celebrates his last night of freedom this week – but as he has a drunken showdown with lover Ben, will he call off the wedding altogether?

While there's no doubt that Callum really does love his future wife Whitney, he's also aware that he's lying to both her and himself by trying to bury his feelings for Ben. So when he gatecrashes Whit's hen do and asks to speak to her alone, is he about to drop the bombshell that he's gay?

"Whit's on cloud nine about this wedding, yet it's clear that Callum is unravelling," points out our Walford insider. "He wants nothing more than to have the wife, the house and the kids, but pretending that he's not attracted to men just isn't working for him. He doesn't know how much longer he can live a lie."

Before the hen and stag night festivities kick off, Callum finds himself with a lot of explaining to do when his fiancée finds the letters from his recently deceased friend Chris – an old Army colleague who was in love with Callum. Whit's shocked by what she reads, and demands an explanation from her soon-to-be husband. But try as he might, Callum just can't find the words he needs to come clean to Whitney...

While Whit's quick to assure Callum that she's more concerned with their future together than she is with his past, it's clear that Callum is still struggling to hold it all together.

“Whit's on cloud nine – yet it's clear that Callum is unravelling”

Callum wants to know what his brother Stuart has said to Ben

So when the day of his stag party arrives, it's tough for him to muster some enthusiasm.

Just as Callum finally starts to get into the swing of things, Stuart turns up – and his odd behaviour leaves his brother on edge. That coupled with the fact that Ben is missing from the party makes Callum suspicious – has Stuart done something terrible to Ben?

"It wouldn't be the first time Stuart has given Ben a stark warning to stay away from Callum," our mole reminds us. "He's already bashed him once! Stuart may think he's helping Callum by threatening Ben to back off, but in actual fact, all he's doing is adding to his brother's turmoil."

Whatever Stuart has said or done to Ben soon pales into insignificance, though, when Callum himself goes to find his secret lover – and in a drunken rage, lashes out at him! It's this booze-fuelled, angry confrontation that eventually leads Callum to track down Whitney on her hen do, and admit that there's something he really needs to tell her...

So will Callum come clean and finally reveal to stunned Whitney that he's confused about his sexuality?

Sarah Ellis

HIGH JINKS!

Well, for everyone except Whit...

The women of Walford love an excuse for a night on the town – so they're out in force this week to help Whitney celebrate her hen party!

However, following the discovery of Callum's secret letters from Chris, Whitney struggles to get into the spirit of her big night. Luckily, Linda is on hand to take charge and shake the bride-to-be out of her funk – and after Sonia gives Whitney a much needed pep talk about how much Callum loves her, Whitney is soon back to her bubbly self.

As the ladies head over to E20 for a night filled with sexy shenanigans, Tiffany is excited to hear that Sonia is planning a big surprise for the night! The wild party gets under way with some naughty games – however, sadly not all of them go down particularly well with the guests...

Viewers will just have to wait to find out what Sonia has secretly organised – but there could be an unwelcome surprise on the way for Whitney when Callum makes his shock revelation.

Meanwhile, our pictures appear to show that all is not well with Rainie – and Stuart later spots her clearly in pain. So what is she hiding?

CORONATION STREET | ITV FRIDAY

Run away with me, Eileen!

WILL EILEEN THROW CAUTION TO THE WIND AND START A NEW LIFE WITH JAN?

There's a big shock in store for Eileen this week, when Jan returns – and begs her to move away with him!

The last time Eileen saw Jan, he was being carted off by the cops after getting arrested for his part in the people-trafficking scam. So, when he breaks into her house and tells Eileen that he's been working for the police, the poor woman doesn't know what to think...

"Eileen's so shocked and angry," explains Sue Cleaver, who plays her. "When Jan starts telling her that he was working undercover for the police, she's having none of it – it sounds so far-fetched. He says he loves her, but she has had her fingers burned too many times, and she really can't believe anything he says."

Eileen has been absolutely heartbroken since Jan's arrest, thinking that once again she's fallen for a complete wrong'un. Worse still, following her own involvement in bringing down wicked Rachel and Nikolai – who were behind the modern-day slavery ring – Eileen has been warned to watch her back, in case there are any terrible repercussions.

It's no wonder she doesn't believe Jan's story. However, when lawyer Paula confirms that he's telling the truth, Eileen has a lot to think about.

"Speaking to Paula does change things for her," admits

Rachel watches from afar, as Seb and Eileen discuss Jan

Jan asks Eileen to run away with him... What will she decide?

Sue. "Paula comments that Jan must really love Eileen to break his cover to see her.

"Eileen just wants to be happy," she adds. "Jan has made a huge gesture by putting himself at risk to come and speak to her, which is bound to make her think long and hard about being with him."

However, when Jan drops the bombshell that he wants Eileen to move to Amsterdam with him, she's stunned! Will she really give up her life in Weatherfield to go on the run?

Jan tells Eileen he was working undercover for the police...

WISE WORDS

Sue thinks that Eileen should swerve Jan...

We can't help but root for Eileen to make a go of it with Jan, as it's about time she had her happy ending! However, Sue's not quite so keen for her alter ego to pursue this romance...

"I would advise Eileen to stay away from someone so obviously dangerous!" she tells us. "I don't think there is any doubt that Jan cares about her, but I think she should focus on the fact that she has great friends and a good job – and maybe just go for a quieter life!"

"Eileen has her friends, yet she wants a partner," Sue tells us. "She still feels as though some people on the Street blame her for what her ex-husband Pat Phelan did, and both her boys have flown the nest now. She wants someone to look after her and make her feel special, and Jan could be that person."

As Eileen confides in Seb about Jan's proposal, the pair are unaware that they're being watched from across the street – by none other than dodgy Rachel! So could Eileen, Seb and Jan all be in serious trouble if Rachel catches up with them?

"Eileen knows Jan is caught up in a dangerous situation," admits Sue. "But it is so far removed from her everyday life that she can't appreciate how much of a murky world it is, and how high the stakes are."

"Seb says he thinks they're being watched, and that there has been a strange car in the street," she adds. "Eileen doesn't want to put them both at risk, and tells Jan she can't go with him. Yet she doesn't know they've been followed, and it might be too late..."

So as Eileen and Jan say a heartbreaking goodbye, will this be the last time they ever see each other?

MARLON'S HEARTBREAK!

Jessie will leave him high and dry,
as Sandra Marvin quits the Dales...

EMMERDALE

Jessie and Marlon's marriage has survived a lot of Dingle family scrutiny – plus Jessie being shot at point-blank range – but sadly, after all that, the end is nigh for Marlon and wife number four!

Dales star Sandra Marvin, who plays teacher Jessie, has announced that she is quitting the village and returning to her theatre roots to star alongside Corrie's Beverly Callard, aka Liz, in new stage show The Thunder Girls...

"My last day will be emotional – there is definitely going to be a wobbly lip!" pouts Sandra sadly, discussing her decision to leave the soap. "I've always felt that I was being pulled in so many directions, still with a love for singing and theatre.

"It was a really hard decision, as I love soaps and have always dreamt of being in one – but I'm also excited to see what the future could hold," adds the actress. "Thank God Emmerdale has left the door open for me. I'm very grateful for that!"

The news means that heartbreak is on the horizon for poor Marlon, who has never had much luck with women (see right). And it sounds as if Jessie's ex, Al, is going to play a huge role in driving a wedge between the couple...

"Jessie isn't going quietly," teases Sandra. "Al stirs things up, and there are lots of fireworks!"

Jessie and Marlon's smiles didn't last for very long!

CORRIE

The cobbles stalwart will make a special appearance...

EMILY'S BIRTHDAY SURPRISE!

She's been absent from the Corrie drama since 2016, but Weatherfield favourite Emily Bishop will be back on our screens this autumn for a brief cameo!

Actress Eileen Derbyshire, who has been on an extended break from the show, has filmed a scene in which Emily will appear in a video message to wish her good friend Ken a happy birthday – when he turns 80 in October.

Speaking earlier this year, Coronation Street boss Iain MacLeod explained: "We're in fairly regular talks with Eileen. The door is certainly not closed there."

Emily swapped Weatherfield for Peru three years ago to visit her nephew Spider, before returning to live in Scotland with her niece Freda Burgess off-screen.

There's no word on whether a permanent comeback is on the cards – but in the meantime Ken, Claudia, Adam, Rita, Audrey and Mary will be joined by soon-to-return Norris, as Emily is reunited with them all via the power of the internet. Wonderful!

Bailey contacts the other side?

HER WORRIED FAMILY FEARS SHE IS HEADING FOR HEARTBREAK...

Grieving Bailey is filled with hope this week, as she's led to think she could speak to her mum again. But while the rest of her family are sceptical about the situation, could Bailey find some comfort?

Patrick's new wife Sheree puts the idea into Bailey's head – and while Sheree may have meant well, Bailey is left thinking that she's going to be able to get in touch with her mum once more...

"When Bailey tells her family what she wants to do, they're horrified, knowing that surely no good can come of this idea," sighs our Walford insider. "Her big brother and sister, Keegan and Chantelle, try to put her off the idea – but Bailey thinks it's worth a try."

Later, medium Shannya arrives, and she and Bailey begin their seance session. Yet when things don't go to plan, Bailey is devastated.

"Furious Chantelle has been proved right, so she confronts Shannya," says our mole. "However, there's something in the way that the medium reacts that leaves Chantelle feeling rather spooked..."

EastEnders is remaining tight-lipped over what takes place at the seance, although it seems the events – while not what Bailey was hoping – might lead to some good.

"Keegan and Bailey have become extremely close over the past few months, so it's down to him to comfort his sister," says our source. "And with some kind words, he manages to give the little'un hope for the future."

Could this debacle help Bailey turn a corner?

Steven Murphy

MEET ANITA!

The Carry On star's Walford debut...

Shannya is played by a famous face – singer and actress Anita Harris, best known for her roles in Carry On films.

The star has been a regular in entertainment shows over the past six decades, while in recent years she's played it straight with appearances in Casualty and Midsomer Murders. Meanwhile, last year, Anita was in ITV reality show Last Laugh In Vegas, which saw her performing in the entertainment capital of the world.

"It's been a very interesting past couple of years," says Anita of her recent television roles...

Tony confronts Sylver, believing he's killed Harry

HOLLYOAKS | Channel 4 WEDNESDAY

Tony becomes convinced that his son Harry has fallen foul of the local serial killer this week – and accuses Sylver of murdering him!

The worried dad has been suspicious ever since Harry went missing, and with no word from the lad in weeks, he's petrified that something awful has happened to him. Especially since Louis Loveday's body was recently found floating in the River Dee...

"Tony and Harry were starting to get close again, so the way Harry has just disappeared seems really odd," explains Nick Pickard, who plays terrified Tony. "The messages he's been getting from Harry are a big trigger point for him too, because they contain emojis, and Harry doesn't ever use emojis – so that makes him suspicious. Then Leela mentions that the killer had been sending messages from Louis' phone, and that's when Tony starts to think that Harry might have been murdered."

Prior to this horrifying realisation, Tony has been doing all he can to track down his missing son. So he decides to hold a special barbecue at the Hutch in the hope of bringing Harry home.

"It's actually Darren who sparks the idea, because he tells Tony that he can't just give up on his son," Nick tells us. "He says to Tony, 'You've got to fight, you've got to do everything you can'. Tony's trying to be positive and drum up some information, so he invites all of Harry's friends to the barbecue to find out if any of them have seen him."

Meanwhile, Breda panics that Tony could be getting a little bit too close to the truth, and tries desperately to deter him from looking for his son. But her behaviour raises Tony's suspicions – and he jumps to the conclusion that she's trying to protect her killer son, Sylver!

"Tony puts two and two together, and comes up with eight!" chuckles Nick. "The ideas just keep snowballing and he thinks to himself, 'Well, there's a convicted killer already living in the village – I bet he's got to Harry!'"

"Sylver's really upset when he confronts him, though, as him and Tony are friends," adds the star. "It's really not very nice to have one of your mates accusing you of

However, when Sadie sends a photo of baby Isaac with the teddy that Breda made him, Tony's brain starts whirring even more – and he becomes convinced this is the key to discovering the killer's identity! So is Tony about to uncover the grisly truth? And if so, should Breda book a one-way ticket to Alicante before the police come knocking?

CORONATION STREET | ITV WEDNESDAY

Robert blackmailed!

JED KNOWS HIS SECRET AND WANTS HIM TO BUY HIS SILENCE...

Love rat Robert thinks the game is up this week, when Vicky's ex-fella Jed finds him in possession of two engagement rings!

It doesn't take Jed long to figure out that Robert is deceiving both pregnant Vicky and Michelle, and he threatens to reveal everything to the ladies in question – unless Robert does what he says.

Jed is willing to make a deal, and it involves Robert paying him off, and convincing his son Tyler to move to Ireland with him. Will Robert take this opportunity to save his skin?

"This is Robert's nightmare – Jed's got him over a barrel and is now calling all the shots," says our cobbles spy. "He thought that he'd won when Vicky agreed to marry him and forget about starting a new life with former flame Jed in Ireland – even though he had to propose to her and hand over Michelle's expensive engagement ring to seal the deal! Although now Jed has everything he needs to blow Robert's double life apart!"

The trouble kicks off when Robert gets a text about the cheap replica engagement ring, which he plans to give Vicky. Believing he's off to pick up her ring, clueless Michelle waves her fiancé goodbye. But after he collects the fake ring and gives it to Vicky, he's horrified to find the window of his van smashed and the real ring – which he was hiding in there – gone, before Jed steps out and asks Robert why he needs two engagement rings! Bang to rights, Robert is forced to leave.

Back on the Street, he has to explain to Michelle why he doesn't have her ring, and

...but Jed causes problems for Robert when he discovers Michelle's ring reports the van break-in to copper Craig. But when his details about being parked in Macclesfield are proved false by CCTV footage, Robert has to think fast to cover the lies.

"His behaviour is really quite bizarre, and Michelle has already been wondering exactly what is up with Robert," explains our insider.

"Jed has got Robert over a barrel, and is now calling the shots..."

Robert's continued odd behaviour leaves Michelle suspicious

"He's under huge pressure when Jed turns up with his demands, which involve Robert withdrawing £2,000 from the Bistro safe and buying his silence! He tells Michelle that the money has been spent on a new ring, but it's all really suspicious. Robert has got himself caught up in a very tangled web."

The next day, Jed can't believe it when he hears Robert telling Tyler that he hopes he'll be around to help bring up the baby. When Jed confronts Robert, the furious chef pulls an ace card – he's caught blackmailing Jed on tape! Promising to go to the police if Jed doesn't do one, Robert's relieved when the slippery man scuttles away. But having lied through his teeth yet again, is Robert making life too complicated to keep up the façade?

Mel flees with Hunter!

SHE'S ON THE RUN WITH HER KILLER SON – BUT BEN'S ON HER TRAIL...

Mel faces a desperate race against time to get her fugitive son Hunter out of Walford this week – before the police catch up with him!

After receiving word that Hunter had escaped from prison, Mel was stunned to find him waiting for her in her office in a terrible state. Determined to save him from a life behind bars, Mel makes plans for the two of them to flee to Portugal – but with Ben watching her every move, can Mel smuggle her son out of the country before the police track him down?

"Mel wants nothing more than for her son to be free, although these circumstances are less than ideal," reckons our Walford spy. "She knows that the police are hunting for him – and they're not the only ones! Given that Ben is sniffing around as well, getting Hunter out of the area undetected is going to be a tall order."

With Hunter seriously injured following his daring prison break, Mel knows she needs to get her boy urgent medical attention before they can leave the country. But while she's racing around Walford trying to prepare for their departure, Ben's on a mission of his own...

Since Keanu and Louise fled in the wake of Phil's attack, Ben has been desperately attempting to find the pair. He's convinced they're holed up with Louise's mum, Lisa, and he realises that Mel will know exactly where to find her!

However, as Ben trails Mel around the Square, demanding information on where Lisa is located, he notices her shifty behaviour – then spots her going into an abandoned basement! With Hunter's escape now front-page news, it doesn't take a genius to work out what Mel's doing in the dingy underground hideout. So when Ben corners her with his suspicions, Mel has no choice but to give Ben what he wants...

Meanwhile, it's clear Mel is struggling to cope as she empties the E20 safe of all the takings, ready to escape. As she makes her way back to

"Ben is proving to be a real thorn in Mel's side!" gasps our sneak. "And he's not the only one – Sharon is also suspicious of what is going on. And when Mel herself goes to say a veiled goodbye to Amy, could she be having second thoughts about going on the run with her boy?"

Mel uses Sharon's baby scan for her own benefit...

Mel offers to go with pregnant Sharon to her baby scan this week – but don't be fooled by her kind gesture!

The pair have never really seen eye-to-eye, yet when Mel hears that Sharon is nervous about her amniocentesis appointment, she offers to accompany her. Worried Sharon is grateful for the support – although Mel's motives soon become clear when she sneaks off on a mission to help injured Hunter!

So what exactly is desperate Mel up to? And will anxious Sharon receive the news she's hoping for about her unborn baby?

her son, Jack spots her looking distressed, and offers her a shoulder to cry on – so will Mel crack and reveal what's really troubling her?

"Last time Mel turned to Jack for help escaping the police, he double-crossed her!" our mole reminds us. "So it's unlikely she'll be making that mistake again! However, with Jack probing to find out what's wrong with her, can Mel convince him that she's not seen hide nor hair of her son?"

Whether Mel manages to throw former cop Jack off the scent remains to be seen – but there's yet more trauma in store for her when the police

Double agony for Aaron!

AFTER LIV COLLAPSES, ROBERT CONFESSES EVERYTHING...

Liv's collapse shakes Robert to his core...

There's total devastation for Aaron this week, when Robert finally confesses that he could be sent to prison for life.

He's been hiding the terrible truth from his husband and the rest of the family, fearing that the reality of what he's facing could destroy them all. But when Liv has a seizure and is rushed to the hospital, Robert realises he must come clean.

"Robert just blurts it out, and poor Aaron's heart shatters into a million pieces – he knows this could be the end for them," reveals our Dales insider. "He's terrified for Robert, furious that he kept this from him, and crushed that everything they have could be gone because of one mad moment. True to form, Aaron lashes out and shouts at Robert for ruining their lives."

Before he finally admits the terrible truth to Aaron, Robert continues to hope he might be able to spare his family the facts. However, when Cain discovers what he's facing and tells Robert that he won't lie to Aaron, time begins ticking.

Worse is to come, though, as Liv suddenly collapses at the café. Paddy, Marlon and Cain are on hand to rush to her aid, but traumatised Robert can't move. Seeing the sister-in-law he adores having a seizure brings it home to Robert that he may not be around to protect and care for Liv, Victoria, Aaron or baby Seb. It's too much to deal with, and that's why he knows he has to be honest with Aaron so everyone can be prepared.

"Wicked Lee will take great pleasure in ruining their lives,"

Robert could finish up spending several decades behind bars!"

shares our spy. “Robert knows that the case against him is building, and he has every reason to be terrified – he could end up spending several decades behind bars.”

After telling Aaron, Robert braces himself to be honest with Vic and Liv as well. Can the family cope with this terrible possibility?

“They are best friends who are in love!”

Danny Miller (Aaron) and Ryan Hawley (Robert) ponder the end of ‘Robron’...

Ryan, Emmerdale fans are gutted you’re off!

Ryan I’ve seen a few things online – people upset that I’m leaving. It’s not nice [to upset people], is it? We want them to be happy, which is why we do this show.

Danny I’m livid! [Laughs] My episode count is going down! No, I’ve been there and left the show and had a go at seeing what’s out there. I always felt Ryan would want to do the same at some point. I’m gutted for me, Aaron and the show, but I wish Ryan all the best.

it gives viewers a great representation of people in the same situation.

Ryan There’s something relatable about it, and that’s why people like it.

How is Aaron going to go on without Robert?

Danny It’s been a while since he’s had heartbreak. Robert is the love of his life – he’s been through so much with him. When you rip that out of somebody’s life, it’s going to be utterly devastating for them!

How would you feel if Emmerdale bosses decided to kill Robert off, Ryan?

Ryan That’s the choice of the show. Whether you stay or choose to go, you’re at the mercy of the producers, so you can’t have any ill-feeling. It is what it is.

Danny I think it’d be a shame. Robert is a character who has been so popular over the years, and Ryan has come in and done the role justice. But if they did do it, it would be a great storyline for me – just saying!

What do you think is the secret to Robron’s success, Danny?

Danny It’s because they are best friends who are in love, and Fiz is in a tiz – and you can hardly blame her!

CORONATION STREET | ITV FRIDAY

Fiz returns... to total chaos!

IT'S AN UNHAPPY HOMECOMING...

Fiz returns to the Street this week, to discover that Tyrone and Evelyn's actions have led to a sit-in protest at the local school!

Ty is horrified when he realises that he's forgotten to enrol Hope – who has been at a specialist school with Fiz for the past few months – back at Bessie Street Primary.

In a desperate bid to put things right, the worried dad makes an appointment at the school and takes friend Brian, who was formerly the head teacher there, for support.

Tyrone reckons it's worth a try to beg the headmistress for help. However, when she confirms Brian's suspicions that it's too late, Ty's grandma Evelyn takes drastic action.

"Evelyn likes nothing more than a good scrap!" laughs our Corrie spy. "She won't let some jumped-up teacher tell her grandson that he can't take his child there. Tyrone doesn't know what she's planning, so when she barricades them into the office and refuses to leave until the school meets their demands, he's floored!"

Of course, this is just the moment that Fiz returns!

Realising that her partner has messed up and now his gran is making it worse, Fiz despairs over how it will end. Meanwhile, Evelyn is having the time of her life, especially when the press pitches up to hear her story, and she gives them chapter and verse. Thankfully for Tyrone, Brian manages to pocket the keys and eventually puts an end to Evelyn's madness!

As the dust settles, it's soon clear that Evelyn has been enjoying having Ty and Ruby to herself while Fiz and Hope have been in Birmingham, and she's not exactly relishing the return of her grandson's wife.

Evelyn refuses to have her grandson put in the corner

“Evelyn thinks Tyrone and Fiz are too soft – she reckons Hope needs a firm hand...”

Shona pushed to the Max!

SHE VISITS DAVID AND IS STUNNED AT WHAT SHE DISCOVERS...

Stressed-out Shona turns to boyfriend David for help this week, as young Max's behaviour gets worse.

Ever since his dad was locked up, Max has been acting up, and Shona is finding his behaviour unmanageable. At the end of her tether, Shona feels as if she has no choice but to tell David what's been going on at home. Yet David has some insight that will leave Shona feeling wretched.

"It's easy to forget that Max is a youngster who lost his mum in traumatic circumstances," explains our Corrie spy. "It turns out that it was Kylie's birthday last week, and Max is probably feeling her loss even more deeply than usual. David understands why Shona is so cross, but he asks her to cut Max some slack. Kylie's loss changed their lives forever."

As Shona leaves the prison, she feels terrible about giving Max a hard time. She finds him and asks him to forgive her for being so harsh, hopeful that the incident can be put behind them. The problem is that David has no idea that Max's actions aren't just down to grief.

"No one has realised that Max isn't taking his ADHD medication," warns our sneak. "Without it, Max's behaviour will spiral. If Shona thinks she's seen the worst of it, she's in for a massive shock."

With David inside and Gail away, Shona's already trying to cope with too much on her own. She needs support, but there's none available and Max is going to challenge her. Can their relationship survive what's to come, or will David return to a family divided and a son he doesn't recognise any more?

Kate White

"Evelyn thinks Hope would be better off in Birmingham, where she can't bring strife to them," says our insider. "That's where she was receiving the schooling she needed, so that's where she should stay, as far as Evelyn is concerned. Tyrone and Fiz are way too soft to manage her – Hope needs a firm hand, and Evelyn isn't afraid to say so."

Can Fiz and Evelyn manage to find a way to live together without falling out, and will Hope finally get a place in school?

Jean's ride of her life!

BUT DOES SHE HAVE SERIOUS
COMPETITION
FOR DANIEL'S AFFECTIONS?

Jean embraces her inner wild child this week, as her new pal Daniel finds a novel way to take her mind off her mounting family dramas!

With Stacey and Martin still on the run following Stacey's brutal attack on Phil, Jean is really feeling the pressure of trying to keep her daughter's awful secret under wraps. So when things at home get too much, Jean turns to Daniel for comfort – and he ends up taking her on a thrilling ride...

"This is a sight we never thought we would see – Jean on the back of a motorbike!" chuckles our Walford insider. "She's not usually one to go hell for leather, but judging by the look of pure joy on her face, it appears she's having the time of her life with Daniel! He's exactly what she needs right now."

It's not just the issue of having to lie about Stacey's whereabouts that's getting Jean down – she's also feeling more isolated than ever, and she's missing her grandkids Lily and Hope dearly. Of course, Kat is doing her best to lift Jean's spirits, but with her own three children, plus Cherry and Arthur to look after, she's got her hands full – not to mention being preoccupied with hunky lover Kush now that he's moved in.

What Jean needs right now is a supportive friend who will allow her to talk through all her worries – so when she meets up with Daniel, and he lets her speak frankly about everything she has going on in her life, Jean's very grateful indeed.

However, Jean could soon have competition – as Mo

FESTIVAL FEVER

Can Neighbours please make the Lassiters musical festival an annual event? I loved seeing huge international artists like Jess Glynne and Hanson playing in Erinsborough! But next time it would be funny to have some of the soap's former singing stars performing at the festival. Imagine if Natalie Imbruglia did a set, and Ned realised how much she looks like his mum Beth...

Or better still, Jason Donovan – that would confuse poor Harlow!

EastEnders were hard to bear. It's so upsetting how he let that guy go without confessing his feelings. I hope telling someone his secret will give him the courage to admit the truth to Whitney, so that he can finally give in to Ben.

With his wedding looming, Callum needs to make up his mind!

We reckon Callum is Halfway to making a shock confession

PAUL'S A REAL GEM

Corrie's Gemma has had so much screen time this year, but I think her brother, Paul, is going to be the one to watch. It's a shame his relationship with Billy barely featured on screen – and when it did, they split up! Paul really intrigues me, and I think he could become a massive character if the writers invest in him.

🍷 | Sarah, London

Paul has a huge story coming up, so watch this space!

SO LONG, DEBS

Thank goodness Debbie has finally left Emmerdale! It felt as though she'd been saying goodbye to her family for weeks – talk about milking it! She took so long to actually go that surely Charley Webb's maternity leave must be almost over by now?

🍷 | Gloria

That's what seven episodes a week will do for you...

SWING OUT, SISTER!

So, Iqra from EastEnders goes missing, and sister Habiba sets off to find her. Where can she be? In the abandoned kids' playground of course, where there is ne'er a child to be seen – even in the school holidays! Talk about adults only!

👤 | Marie, Sheffield

Imagine if they got there one day to find children on the swings!

SUMMER BAY BAES

It's lovely seeing Home and Away's Justin and Leah pull together to look out for Ava in the wake of her mum and stepdad splitting. Leah is the best girlfriend Justin's had since arriving in the Bay, and I see them having a bright future.

👤 | Julianne, London

Could there be wedding bells chiming for Lustin? I do hope so!

WAKE UP, STE!

I can't believe that even after all the evidence Jed put to him, Ste still doesn't realise that he's been groomed by a far-right extremist group. He's been brainwashed!

Hollyoaks is doing a great job of showing just how dangerous these groups are, and how easy it is for them to target vulnerable people.

👤 | Peter

Ste's going to end up losing everything and everyone he cares about if he's not careful!

Ste's involvement with Stuart leaves us feeling blue

EMMA'S A SECRET McDONALD!

I've always been a fan of bubbly Corrie hairdresser Emma – but I never imagined she might be Steve's secret daughter! At least now we know where she gets her wacky sense of humour from...

I remember hearing a rumour when Emma first arrived on the cobbles that she could be Fiona Middleton's daughter – so how funny that it's now turned out to be true! I wonder if this is what the writers had planned for Emma all along?

👤 | Rishi, Croydon

The look on Steve's face when Liz told him Emma might be his daughter was absolutely priceless! Although not as funny as Tim's reaction when Steve relayed the story. I'm really hoping that Steve and Emma can eventually forge some kind of father-daughter relationship, because I think seeing the two of them pair up for some scheme would be really hilarious!

👤 | Katie

She may be scatty, but Emma has a heart of gold – and after all she's been through with losing her 'dad', I think being a part of the McDonald family could be just what she needs right now. Liz will be a fabulous grandma, and Steve will try his best. I'm not sure Tracy will be quite so welcoming to her, though!

👤 | Rachel, Barnham

But some of you aren't convinced that Steve is actually Emma's birth dad...

I would have loved it if Emma turned out to be Steve's sister, because Fiona Middleton did have a thing with Steve's dad Jim. Then Steve would get the sister he deserves after that fake-sister Hannah storyline.

👤 | Darren, Stoke-on-Trent
Liz says Jim is definitely not Emma's father, though...

WIFE SWAP

I've seen the actress who plays Patrick's new wife Sheree in EastEnders somewhere before. What else has she been in? And this isn't the first time Patrick's returned home from holiday married, is it?

📌 | Jon, Gravesend

Sheree is played by star Suzette Llewellyn – she's been in EastEnders

before as the judge presiding over Max's court case. She was also the woman who kidnapped Lisa Loveday in Hollyoaks! Patrick did return from a previous holiday with a new lady on his arm, Yolande, although they didn't actually get wed until a year after that.

TRAGEDY HAS
RIPPED HER ALTER
EGO'S LIFE APART,
AND EMMERDALE'S
AMY WALSH
RECKONS THAT THE ROAD TO RECOVERY IS GOING TO BE LONG...

EMMERDALE | ITV BANK HOLIDAY MONDAY

“Tracy has lost everything
– her dad was all she really had”

Tracy's pain: How will the villager cope in the wake of her tragic loss?

Back to the FUTURE!

Does the key to Tracy's happiness lie in her past?

Are we alone in keeping our fingers crossed that Tracy may end up getting back with ex-husband David? She's categorically said it's over, but their relationship and life together did make Tracy very happy...

"It was everything to her," admits Amy. "She was so happy to live a quiet life, to be the girl next door who works in the local shop, and to be Jacob's stepmum. It's funny as despite everything that has gone on between Tracy and David, I do believe she'll always love him."

"They've been through a lot, and he's not always understood her, but I feel as if he's the one person she would confide in and trust. If not, it'd need to be a new love interest for Tracy, or someone she thought really cared about her..."

Poor Tracy Metcalfe is a broken woman in need of a big hug. Her pain and despair following dad Frank's tragic death has been almost unbearable, and left us wanting to reach into the screen to comfort her. For Emmerdale star Amy Walsh (who plays Tracy) it's an exciting challenge to have such a huge storyline, but it's come at a cost – waving goodbye to co-star and screen dad Michael Praed (Frank Clayton). So what does the future hold for Amy – and will her alter ego get over what's happened to her dad?

"I don't think anyone ever gets over losing a parent, whatever age they are at," muses Amy, who joins us for a chat about the traumatic plot. "The circumstances have been so turbulent, too. If Amy can find out the truth, she might be able to settle and find some calmness to move forward, but it won't be easy."

The fire itself was a classic Emmerdale stunt, and it took everyone's breath away. Trapped in the storeroom with Frank battling to get her out, Tracy was at the heart of the action – and that meant very exciting scenes for Amy...

"It was such a great time!" she enthuses. "It took a week to film the fire episodes. One of my favourite bits was just Michael and I being on set, inside the factory. We'd not really worked together for a little while, as he'd done a lot of stuff with Gaynor Faye [Megan], and I'd been in the Maya and Jacob storyline. So, having this moment with me and him sat either side of the door made me feel quite emotional."

The fire episodes ended with Frank being blown to his death as he raced out of the sweet factory with Megan's engagement ring in his pocket. While it was traumatic on screen, Amy says it was a thrill to witness the big moment.

"It was amazing to watch the stunt being filmed and how elated everyone was with how it went!" she tells us.

"It really was a goosebump moment. The effects and the stunt people were amazing. It felt as if we were all part of something really big and impressive."

Now, the fallout of Frank's death continues, and Amy reckons Tracy is feeling more isolated than ever.

"Somebody said to me the other day, 'Who are Tracy's friends?' and I was like, 'Yeah, it's a tricky one!'" muses the star. "Leyla was, but then she did the dirty on Tracy. Tracy and Priya have a little bit of a friendship, although it's nothing much. Finn was her best friend and he died. She doesn't really have a relationship with her mum, which is hard for any woman, and now Frank's gone. She's lost everything, and I feel for her. After her divorce from David, Frank was the only thing she had. She has this weird relationship with Vanessa, yet they often don't see eye to eye, even though she knows Vanessa loves her. I think Tracy will struggle without Frank."

It's not only Tracy who'll be pining – Amy's had to say goodbye to screen dad Michael. What does Amy miss the most about her old cast mate?

"Everything!" she confesses. "We loved Michael and his positivity. He would come up to you in the make-up chair, and break in just for two kisses and to say, 'Hello, my darling!' and I really miss that. Michael always had chewing gum, too, so I'm missing that as well – I don't know who to get it off these days!"

If Amy can find out the truth, she might be able to settle...

The rotten TRUTH!

AS DIRTY DENTIST ADAM CONTINUES TO GET AWAY WITH HIS AFFAIR, EASTENDERS STAR STEPHEN RAHMAN-HUGHES TELLS US HE HAS NO SYMPATHY FOR HIS ALTER EGO...

“Would I be friends with Adam in real life? Probably not!” chuckles EastEnders star Stephen Rahman-Hughes, who plays the cheating dentist, as we grab him for a grilling on his character’s terrible antics. “He wants to be the star of the show, doesn’t he? He wants life to be exactly how he wants it, with him at the centre of it all. And that narcissism is not particularly a quality that I would want in a friend!”

For months, selfish Adam has been cheating on his girlfriend Honey with Habiba, promising his younger lover that he will leave his partner to be with her. When Habiba got sick of his games and dumped him recently, it seemed he’d got away with his affair. But with Honey suspecting that something has gone on between the two of them, is Adam in for a rude awakening?

“Adam thinks he’s done a brilliant job of keeping everything hidden,” Stephen informs us. “In his mind, he’s not aware that Honey has any inkling. Obviously he knows she’s questioned it, but he thinks he’s been so clever and great at covering his tracks that he’s been able to turn it around really well.”

Viewers know that Honey has a pretty good idea of what’s been going on right under her nose, yet for whatever reason she’s burying her head in the sand and refusing to face the reality – that she’s dating a cheater. This week, the pair are forging ahead with their plans to buy Jack’s flat together. Yet could it all be about to fall apart if Honey suddenly decides to leave the rotten bloke?

“I think Adam would be devastated if that happens,” says Stephen. “Honey is the closest thing to offering him the chance to create his own family unit. His relationship with her kids is good, and I think that’s a huge missing piece of the jigsaw puzzle for him, because he’s never had a family of his own.

“Adam’s come from a foster care background – and while he’s had a lot of love from Mariam and Arshad, he grabs the attention and adoration whenever he can,” he continues. “He probably feels that life owes him something, so if someone is attracted to him, I think he’s an opportunist in that respect. He will grab it and run with it.”

As viewers, we’re not at all happy that arrogant Adam has been treating lovely Honey so badly. And Stephen tells us that he wasn’t initially impressed to hear that his alter ego would be morphing into a love rat, either.

“It was actually a massive surprise,” he admits. “I was playing this really nice guy, and suddenly they told me I would be launching into an affair – I was quite taken aback. But then I was very excited to get on with some stuff that was going to be much more interesting to play.

“A show like this is all about conflict and drama – it’s what keeps the viewers excited,” he continues. “A nice guy has a shelf-life, so it’s good to roll up your sleeves and get stuck in!”

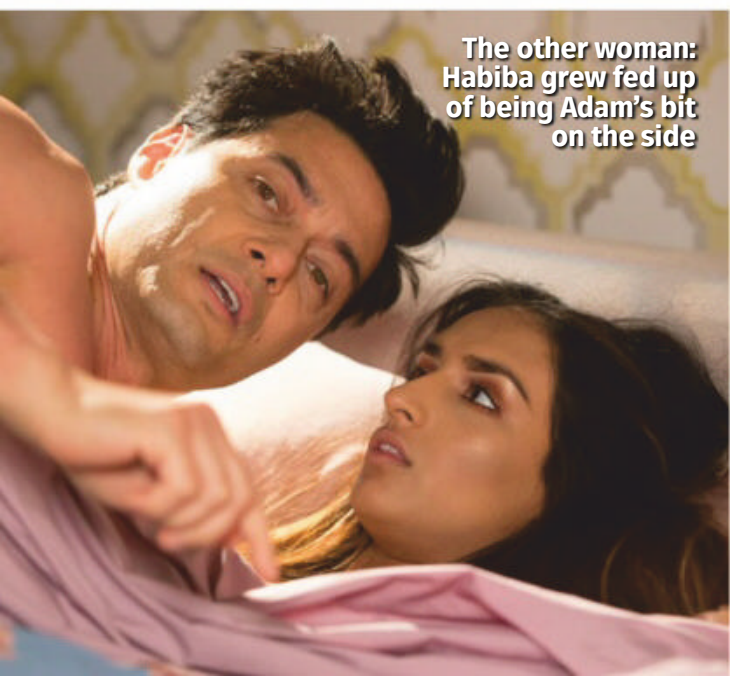

Although Stephen’s enjoyed lots of success in the theatre, and as part of singing group Teatro, EastEnders is his first long-term TV role. And getting used to the level of fame that comes with being on a soap has been a bit of an adjustment for the star.

“I was at the Royal Opera House recently, watching a dance with my wife, who’s a choreographer,” he reveals. “A cabbie pulled up and was like, ‘Oi, Adam, I’m going to tell Honey!’ when I was kissing my wife. And I was like, ‘She’s my wife!’ [Laughs]

“It’s happening all the time now,” continues Stephen. “It’s a different level of fanaticism, but everyone’s been really friendly. Even though people hate me on screen, when they see me in real life, it’s all very tongue-in-cheek!”

SING when you're WINNING

Stephen likes to belt out a tune with famous friends...

When he's not busy filming at the EastEnders studios in Hertfordshire, Stephen still enjoys singing – and recently did a concert with his good friend Lee Mead, aka Holby's Lofty.

"We've known each other over 10 years – we started singing together in a group called The West End Men," explains Stephen. "We did something with Ramin Karimloo [Holby's Kian] recently as well – we were the original three in this group, and now we're all working at the same BBC studios together."

But Stephen admits he didn't receive such a welcome reception from the audience last weekend...

"As soon as I got on to the stage, everyone was booing!"

he grins. "These are fans who have followed my career for quite some time before EastEnders, so we had a little bit of a joke about it. I guess that means I'm doing a good job playing Adam!"

Daddy ISSUES!

HOLLYOAKS' AEDAN
DUCKWORTH ON OLLIE'S FAMILY DRAMAS...

HOLLYOAKS | Channel 4 WEDNESDAY

Ollie may have been hiding the truth about his little brother's true paternity for months now, but this week it becomes clear that his daddy issues aren't about to stop there. First up, the teenager is yet to discover he's now a father-to-be, with his girlfriend Brooke pregnant. Meanwhile, the return of his own troubled dad, Luke, looks set to upset the happy new life he's built with stepmum Mandy and her new fella Darren. So, as we join 18-year-old Aedan Duckworth – who plays Ollie – for a chat about the life of his alter ego, he's preparing himself for plenty of drama...

"There's a lot brewing at the moment, that's for sure," laughs the star. "I mean, to discover that you're going to be a dad when you're just a 16-year-old lad – to say that he'd be shocked is an understatement! He has so much going on right now, so bringing a kid into the world doesn't seem like the best idea."

However, Ollie inadvertently has some parenting practice this week, when Darren asks him to look after baby DJ. Realising that Ollie isn't bonding with the boy, Darren decides they should spend some quality time together. But little does he know that Ollie's been avoiding the baby because he knows Darren's not DJ's dad – Luke is!

"Ollie's really struggling with this secret – it's such a huge thing for someone of his age to be keeping to himself," says Aedan. "He takes DJ with him on a date with Brooke, yet that doesn't really go to plan! But later, he has a nice little scene with DJ, where he kind of apologises for keeping his distance – obviously, DJ can't understand Ollie as he's just a little baby! It's a lovely moment, though, and from there they kind of go onwards and upwards."

And it seems there's baby love off-screen too...

"Little Henry – who plays DJ – is just awesome!" coos Aedan. "I don't have much baby experience, if I'm honest, so the first time I held him was pretty funny, as I was really quite scared! But he's the cutest little cuddly baby I've ever seen. He never cries, and he's great on set – I think I'm probably more bother than him!"

But of course, there's drama in the offing with the return of DJ and Ollie's biological father, Luke. So how is Aedan feeling about his screen father's return?

"Well, Ollie's been missing his dad, so it's going to be good for him to get that bond again," he shares. "Although Ollie does start to worry about Luke attempting to win back Mandy. He's feeling really settled with her and Darren in a kind of family dynamic, and he fears that Luke is going to stir the pot."

"For me, it's great to have Gary Lucy [Luke] here, as I love working with him – he's looked after me since I joined the show, and taught me so much. I've had two years of Gary now!"

So, does Aedan feel as if he's now learned all he needs to about life on Hollyoaks?

"Well, I'm an 18-year-old, so I obviously think I know everything already!" he laughs. "But I do know there are always new things to be learned, which is fantastic."

Mummy's BOY!

Damien Richardson tells us why his alter ego Gary needs to cut the cord to Sheila...

There's panic on Ramsay Street this week, as Sheila goes missing – and Gary blames himself for her disappearance! As the worried son organises a search party for his mum, Neighbours star Damien Richardson (Gary) tells us that his alter ego will never forgive himself if anything happens to her...

Gary and Sheila argued prior to her disappearance, so does Gary feel guilty about it all?

Most definitely – he was too hard on her. You think in the moment that you're angry at someone, but when something like this happens you realise it wasn't that important. So he's concerned for Sheila's wellbeing.

Once Sheila's found safe and well, will Gary be prepared to forgive and forget?

Certainly. He's wrought with guilt – the scenes where Sheila is found are very emotional. It was really enjoyable to film those. Gary is full of shame.

How is Gary coping with seeing his ex-fiancée Amy loved up with his son, Kyle?

It's quite awkward, because Gary and Amy are still living in the same house! They're always in each other's company. There are times when it's just Gary, Amy and Kyle together – and even though the competitiveness has gone, it's not an enviable position to find yourself in.

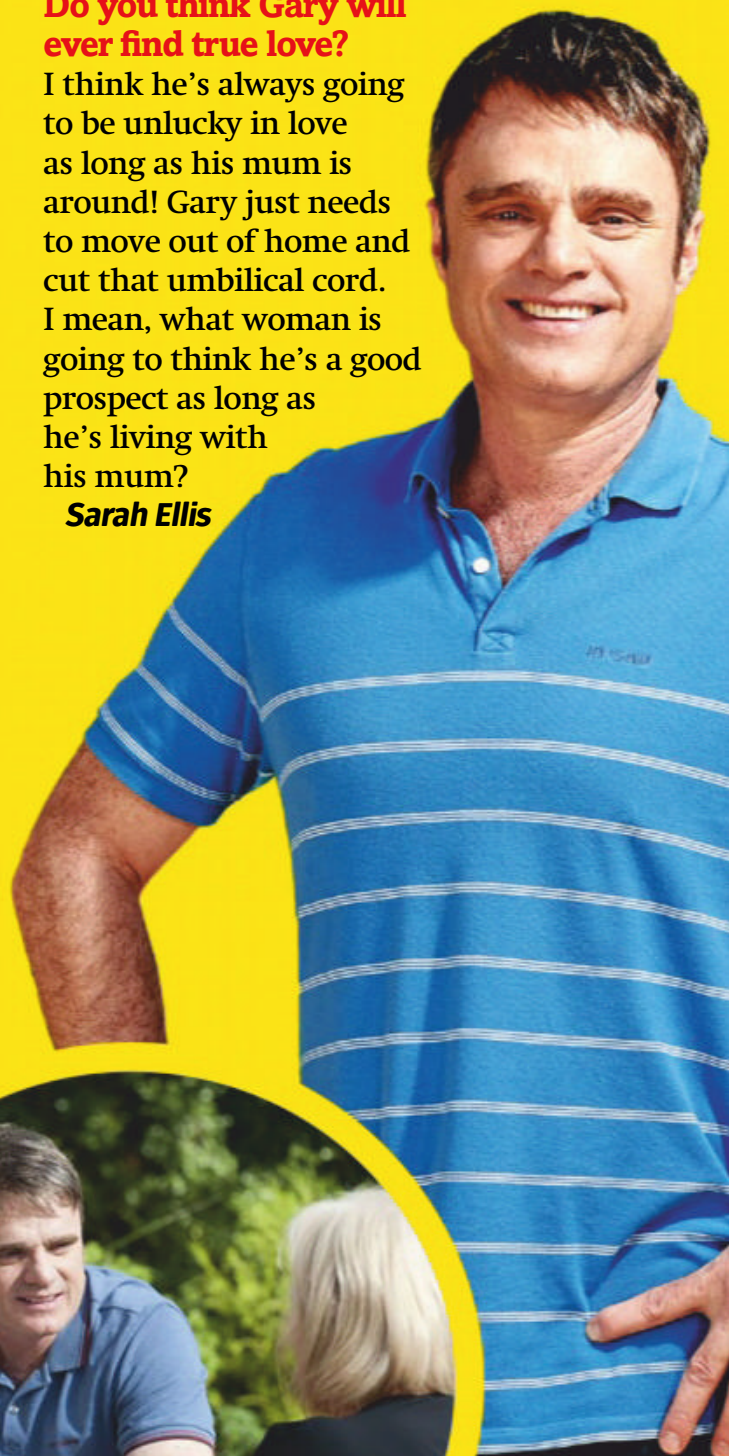

Gary also has a second date with Gail this week. How does that go?

They make quite an entertaining and humorous couple – Gail takes a bit of a fancy to Gary and they go on a few dates. There seems to be a spark there, but let's hope he doesn't find out she's Paul's ex!

Do you think Gary will ever find true love?

I think he's always going to be unlucky in love as long as his mum is around! Gary just needs to move out of home and cut that umbilical cord. I mean, what woman is going to think he's a good prospect as long as he's living with his mum?

Sarah Ellis

10 totally true FACTS about... Adam Woodyatt

YOUR InsideSoap BRIEFING ON THE MAN BEHIND EASTENDERS' IAN...

1 Adam Brinley Woodyatt was born on 28 June 1968 in Walthamstow, and grew up in east London. He attended Forest School alongside comedy writer Sharat Sardana and cricketer Nasser Hussain. Adam then went on to study at Llanidloes High School in Wales, before joining the prestigious Sylvia Young Theatre School in Marylebone.

2 Away from acting, Adam has some hidden talents. While at school, he mastered the Rubik's cube – which he can finish in less than 30 seconds! Adam also loves photography, and in 2008 he was named Architectural Photographer of the Year by the Society of Wedding and Portrait Photographers, for his snap of St Pancras train station.

3 The star won his first acting part in 1983, with a small role in The Baker Street Boys. It was a show that recounted the adventures of a street gang living in Victorian London that helps out detective Sherlock Holmes. However, Adam then put his acting career on hold and worked part-time as a butcher in Wales. In 1984, he auditioned for brand-new soap opera EastEnders.

4 Adam joined EastEnders as Ian Beale in 1985, and is the only member of the cast to appear in the first episode who hasn't officially left the show at some point. "I had no expectations and was just grateful to have a job," he explains. "Christmas 1986 was when I knew it was a hit – we got over 30 million viewers! Now, eight million is considered good." Ian's turbulent life on the Square has included becoming homeless, and discovering that his son Bobby killed his daughter Lucy!

5 The actor is very close to Laurie Brett, who played his screen wife Jane Beale.

In 2015, the pair's chemistry saw them win a British Soap Award for Best On Screen Partnership. "My relationship with Adam has lasted longer than any in real life," laughs Laurie. "I've also had fewer arguments with him than most people!"

6 Adam is married to former dancer Beverley Sharp, and their wedding took place at Disney World, Florida in 1998, after five years of dating. The couple have two children – Jessica, born in 1994, and Samuel, born in 1997. Studious Jessica has a Master's degree in Early Interventions in Psychosis from King's College London.

7 In 2016, Adam's son was hit by a car when he was crossing the road. Sam was air-lifted to hospital, where he was then put into an induced coma. While he was recuperating, he spent eight weeks in a wheelchair. Luckily, Sam made a full recovery, and even competed in the World Cheerleading Championships in May last year. Impressive!

8 In October 2017, Adam and Beverley began creating their own gin. NEAT Gin came about after the pair discovered a 15th-century recipe, which they used as a starting point to inventing the drink. "Our story is quite a simple one," Adam writes on the company's website. "We just wanted to make gin. It's happened very quickly and we've been fortunate to have incredible help and advice from our amazing friends." NEAT Gin is now sold online, and stocked at bars and restaurants around the UK.

9 Earlier this year, Adam ran the London Marathon, to raise money for charity campaign Dementia Revolution and support his former EastEnders cast mate Barbara Windsor (Peggy Mitchell). Adam completed the event with fellow EastEnders Emma Barton (Honey), Natalie Cassidy (Sonia), Tanya Franks (Rainie), Jake Wood (Max) and Jamie Borthwick (Jay). "It means so much to me to see my friends coming together to support this cause," shared Barbara ahead of the race. "I know it will mean a lot to everyone else living with dementia."

10 Despite being the longest-serving cast member at EastEnders, Adam admits that he despises the show's 'doof doof' moments! "I hate them!" he confesses. "You just have to stand there for four seconds like a lemon. In the normal world, when someone has just given you some vital information like 'Cindy's dead', you would say something!"

The stars of Corrie are the last to campaign for your votes in our series of glitzy photo shoots – but they aren't least! Tina O'Brien (Sarah) and Sam Aston (Chesney) have been posing for our cameras for donkey's years, yet the pair show no sign of lacking in enthusiasm as they join Mikey North (Gary), and cobbles newbies Maureen Lipman (Evelyn) and Ruxandra Porojnicu (Alina), to tell us why their show leads the way...

"There will be scenes with Mary and Norris that will make you laugh out loud, followed by a scene where Gary is thinking about bumping someone off!" giggles Tina. "Exactly!" pitches in Sam. "Corrie has always been good at that, and I think that's what people want. MAUREEN LIPMAN

Evelyn Plummer

Evelyn Plummer proves that, in the world of soap, you don't even have to be likeable to be loved. Of course, Corrie has a rich history of 'judgemental old bats' – think of such icons as Ena Sharples, Annie Walker and Blanche Hunt – and Evelyn is certainly continuing the tradition. The fact that viewers have taken her to their hearts is a source of great joy for Evelyn's real-life alter ego Maureen Lipman, who is nominated in two of the most closely fought categories: Best Newcomer and Funniest Female...

It's lovely to meet you, Maureen! Given your glittering career in film, on TV and on stage, it must be fun to be nominated for a 'newcomer' award...

I think it's hugely amusing. After 51 years in acting, I'm still a newcomer! But then, every job you do, you're a newcomer in a sense. I'm very flattered – although as I'm not on social media, I don't expect to win. Though if I did win, I'd make a bloody funny speech!

The joy of Evelyn is that she's a horrendous person, but funny at the same time. Does the stuff she gets up to make you laugh?

It's her only saving grace! She's so in-your-face and shocking, isn't she? I think the Hyacinth Buckets of this world will always be welcome on TV – saying the things people want to say, but aren't brave enough to. People come up to me and say, "Ooh, we love you in Corrie. You're horrible" – and I take that as a compliment.

So, would Evelyn be a friend of yours in real life?

Obviously, I live with someone not dissimilar inside me – I can be quite challenging myself! Sometimes you have to work hard to find what you need to bring to a character. With Evelyn I don't have to work quite so hard! She's a tough nut, but the writers keep trying to give her a soft side. I'm happy to explore that, as long as it doesn't get too soft.

“If some handsome young man wanted a cougar, Evelyn might cast off her hair grips!”

Is there anyone on the Street she could be friends with?

There's this funny sort of thing going on with Roy, isn't there? Kind of bullying, cajoling him into life... I mean, God help him if it goes any further! Poor Roy.

Could Evelyn be interested in romance, do you think?

Well, she's never going to be found in bed with anyone, is she? I can't see it myself. But, as in real life, you just never know what's next. And if some handsome young man came along and wanted a cougar, I'm sure Evelyn would cast off her hair grips!

What would you like to see next for her?

I'd like Corrie to follow through on her backstory. Maybe discover more about her ex-husband? We could find out if that daughter who went to South Africa is really dead... Evelyn is so buttoned-up, so there must be some reason for that. She's brought down the shutter. It would be interesting to see who or what made that happen.

You've had an enviable acting career. Has Corrie brought you a new set of younger fans?

It's nice to be back on TV and in the public eye. I enjoy filming. I like company, and I like working with a cast of all ages. And the Street is also a bit like coming home. My late husband [renowned playwright Jack Rosenthal] wrote over 100 episodes in the 60s and 70s. He had to prise Pat Phoenix out of her dressing room when she was too nervous to film Elsie Tanner's second wedding. All of that is part of my own heritage. So, when they asked if I was interested in playing Evelyn I said, "Of course I am!" I hadn't watched Corrie since the old king died, but it's always been quite matriarchal – you need difficult women at the heart of it.

We hear that when you're staying in Manchester for filming, you're flatmates with Rula Lenska, who plays Claudia...

I've been living for 10 months in basically the same flat as Rula, but lower down the building, and I haven't brought anything with me except a few clothes, make-up, some pills and a rug. Meanwhile, Rula has all these green drapes, lamps with little candle bulbs, there's a chicken in the oven... And then I knock on the door with a bottle of vodka and some garage flowers and say, "Hi darling, I'm home!" We've known each other for years and we're quite the odd couple – but we do really have a laugh.

Perhaps you two could come together on screen...

Well, I was hoping they'd get Claudia to somehow force Evelyn into a makeover – with hair dye, decent clothes, proper shoes... Evelyn is stuck in a time warp, isn't she? It'd be fun to see her change – just for a moment. Of course she'd go straight back to how she was. "That's enough of that nonsense, thank you!"

SNEAK PREVIEW!

"It's quite an upheaval for Evelyn when Fiz and Hope return, and soon there's another resident in the house. Evelyn immediately has her suspicions about the situation. And it will be interesting to see the dynamic between Fiz and Evelyn after Fiz returns – Evelyn still reckons that Tyrone is too good for her..."

“I must admit,
I’ve got a bit of a man crush on Adam Barlow!”

Gary Windass has been to hell and back these past 12 months – but hell is surely where he’s destined to return, given that he’s now up to his neck in an ever-deepening swamp of shocking crimes. But as Mikey North – who plays the builder turned desperate killer – admits, Gary’s only just getting started! So it seems fitting that his wicked alter ego has prompted a grand total of four nominations for Mikey: Best Actor and Best Bad Boy, as well as Best Shock Twist and Best Show-Stopper for the Underworld factory collapse...

You’re nominated for a raft of awards, Mikey – you must be chuffed?

Absolutely! It’s always nice to know that the work you’ve put in is being appreciated – so it’s a privilege. You can never read too much into it, but whichever way you look at it, it’s nice. Gary’s life has changed so much, which has been really fun to play. And there’s lots more to come...

Can you pick a highlight?

There was a scene I did with Tina [O’Brien, aka Sarah] in the Platt house, where Gary pins Sarah up against a wall – that sent me to places which physically help you as an actor. You don’t really want to be there for too long, as it was quite upsetting to do. It was definitely a highlight, but I’ve not actually watched the scene back yet...

MIKEY NORTH

Gary Windass

Do you not like to watch yourself?

I’ve come to a point now where I’ve spent years doing it, and you can end up criticising yourself a lot. So I’ve started trusting the opinions of people around me. And if it feels right on the day, that’s what matters.

Does it help to be working with someone like Tina, who you’ve been teamed with for a long time?

Yeah, I’ve been so lucky in the past couple of years to work with some really talented people, which does make your job easier. I miss working with Tina now that she and Gary aren’t together. She’s brought me on so much as an actor. She’s incredibly talented, so it’s been a privilege.

Might it be Sarah who ends up sussing Gary out in the end?

She’s definitely on his case! There’s Sarah, and there’s Adam – Adam could be the one. He’s a clever guy. But there will be lots of people trying to fathom it over the next few months. We’ll have to see if anyone gets close – but I hope not!

Unlike Gary and Adam, it sounds as if you and Sam Robertson (Adam) have a bond...

Yeah, I’ve got a man crush on Sam! He’s a good lad, and we’ve started knocking about together outside of work – he’s a really nice guy, really down to earth. Some people say you shouldn’t get on if you play enemies on screen, but I disagree. Being friends with someone means you trust them when you’re acting out a scene, and that’s a big help to me.

We’re seeing so many sides to Gary – killer Gary, loaded Gary, guilty Gary, manipulative Gary... Have you got a favourite?

Ha ha! Loaded Gary’s been fun, I’ve quite enjoyed that one. But it’s always nice playing a baddie – you just have to get used to people shouting at you in the street. It’s all fun and games, though – and I take it as a compliment.

How is Gary dealing with being a killer – is he comfortable with it?

A lot of it is bravado with Gary – he puts on an act of being the hard man and believes he could take on anyone. In reality he probably couldn’t, though! I mean, I wouldn’t want to mess with Kevin Webster...

Who are your favourite bad guys?

I thought Rick was a really good baddie, he had some great one-liners. And obviously there’s an element of Gary having learned from the best in Pat Phelan – Gary’s been tortured by him enough to learn something!

What other plots have you loved?

It’s going to be fun seeing Sam Aston [Chesney] trying to cope with all those babies on set! I’d be resigning if it was me [laughs]! And James Burrows [Dr Ali] has a big storyline coming up that I’m looking forward to see. I think he’s going to smash it...

SNEAK PREVIEW!

“Gary will carry on getting away with things for a while yet, but there’s a lot of twists coming. His mind is warped into thinking he can walk over anyone – he has nothing to lose, so he’s scared of nobody! Derek will play a big part in Gary’s world for a bit, and the problems with Ryan and Adam will continue.

There’s also a new romance in the pipeline, which might spark Gary back to reality. Apart from his kids, he’s not got a lot to live for. And that’s what makes him dangerous, I think...”

RUXANDRA POROJNICU
Alina Pop

“We’d never heard of Coronation Street in Romania!”

Corrie’s modern-day slavery storyline tugged at our heartstrings, after we learned that Seb’s new girlfriend, Alina, was a victim of human-trafficking. Their love story is sadly drawing to a close on-screen, but for actress Ruxandra Porojnicu – who plays Alina – it’s the beginning of a fabulous career, as she celebrates her nomination for our Best Newcomer award...

Congratulations, Ruxandra! How familiar were you with Corrie before joining the show?

In my country, Romania, we hadn’t heard of it, so I didn’t grow up with Corrie like other people. We do have loads of Spanish soap operas, though, so I think it’s in my blood!

Alina’s story was tragic. Are you proud that you were able to tell it?

Yes, I think it’s great to be a voice for people who don’t have one. I was so happy when I was cast as it made me think, ‘This is so important, there is no game here – and I need to be as real as I can to get justice for people like Alina’.

Alina is so sweet – can you imagine being friends with her?

Definitely! I think Alina is a part of me – when I was 10 years younger – that I wanted to let out for people to see.

Did you manage to have fun in between filming the trickier scenes?

I was laughing so much with Harry Visinoni [Seb] that there were times when we had to say, “Let’s calm down a bit”! But also, he really supported me. When the truth about Alina came out, I needed to step back and concentrate on portraying her emotions, and Harry knew when to give me space.

Is there anyone else in the show you wanted to work with?

Maureen Lipman [who plays Evelyn]. I was always like, “Please, God”!

You’re up against Maureen in the Best Newcomer category, so are you secretly voting for her?

I’d give the award to her! All the awards should go to Maureen!

We heard that you recently met Princess Eugenie! Is she a big Coronation Street fan?

Yes, she asked me how filming was going! I hope she liked the story. I met her at an event set up by her organisation, The Anti-Slavery Collective. It was amazing! I was a bit anxious as there were so many strong and intelligent people that have done important things in their lives in order to help others.

How have viewers reacted to you?

I’m surprised people recognise me! They mostly tell me how important Corrie is for them, and it really touches me. When I speak to my mum back in Romania I say, “Mum – I met a viewer today and this is what Corrie means to them, and I’m part of it”. It’s amazing!

Would you like the opportunity to revisit Alina’s story?

Definitely. There is so much more for me to learn, and I would love to see Alina go back to Seb.

What acting role would you love to take on next?

A superhero in a Marvel movie, like Catwoman! I want to show my strong side. Alina is the delicate side of me, but I’m a fighter! I did karate when I was a kid, and wasn’t very girly.

What’s next for you personally?

I’m taking a break for now, and want to enjoy the rest of summer. I’m going back to Romania in October as it’s my sister’s wedding. It’s an important event, and I want to share it with her.

Will you be back in time for the Inside Soap Awards?

Oh no, I might not be here! Maybe my sister can move her wedding...

SNEAK PREVIEW!

“Alina and Seb say goodbye, and she’s taken to a safe house. It was heartbreaking for me to play, knowing she’d found someone in Seb whom she could trust. But Alina has to put herself back together, and come to understand everything that she went through and how it has affected her.”

SAM ASTON
Chesney Brown

“Having four little babies on set will be chaotic!”

He’s practically grown up on Coronation Street, but Sam Aston, who’s played Chesney since 2003, is no diva – his feet are planted firmly on those cobbles, and he’s clearly loving Weatherfield life. One of Chesney’s biggest milestones is yet to come, however, as he and Gemma prepare for the arrival of their four babies! And with this dramatic development nominated for our Best Shock Twist award, Sam and his co-star Dolly-Rose Campbell (Gemma) are braced – and delighted...

So, Chesney’s quads are up for our Best Shock Twist – have you got over the shock yet yourself?

Well, it’s quite a bombshell! When I first found out I was like, “They can’t be serious!”. But now I’m looking forward to it, it’s going to be good. For me it’s work, and the babies who’ll play the quads will go home to their parents at the end of the day. Whereas with Chesney, they’re his kids, he’ll have them all the time. And there’s the financial worry of that, the practicalities... Four kids at once has got to be tough, surely?

As one of nine brothers and sisters yourself, you might be better braced for the situation...

Well, I’ve had experience – I’m used to having kids around. But this will still be quite a change, a very different dynamic on set. But it’ll be good fun. Chaotic at times, but fun!

It sounds as though filming will need to be super-organised...
Yeah, but there’s none of that with small babies! What happens, happens, on the day. So you’ve got to deal with it as and when!

Is Chesney up to the task, do you think?

Yes. I think he’ll be the one in charge – although you never know! Gemma’s showing more signs of responsibility now. But Chesney’s the sensible one who likes to keep things steady. This is going to rock the boat a little bit yet deep down, he still loves Gemma and is desperate to make it work. His number one goal is for his kids not to have a broken home like he had, so he’ll try his best to keep the family as tight-knit as possible.

What’s the best thing about working with Dolly-Rose?

She’s absolutely bonkers, and we get on really well. We always have a good laugh on set, and she’s a good friend to have. I really enjoy our scenes together – Dolly is so good at what she does. I always have good craic with her.

Having Gemma’s mum Bernie turn up has certainly thrown the cat among the pigeons!

Well, Bernie’s similar to Chesney’s mother Cilla in a lot of ways. He’s had that a lot in his life and he’s thinking,

'You know what, I ain't got time for you, lady!' Bernie's definitely ruffling feathers, and even Gemma's starting to get fed up with her. But she's a really interesting character.

What's it been like working with Jane Hazlegrove, who plays her?

Jane is absolutely mega. And also bonkers! She and Dolly-Rose are always impersonating Cilla Black in between takes – they can both do her accent really well.

You got married this year – congratulations! – what does your wife Briony make of Ches?

She's an avid fan of Corrie, she doesn't miss an episode. She doesn't give me feedback, she never says anything negative – she's a yoga instructor and is all about positivity! She really enjoys it.

Can you still remember your first day at Corrie?

It's a bit of a blur, but I do remember the scene. I had to finish school early that day, and I don't know what I was more excited about – working at Corrie or getting out of school!

I think I had a contract for three months – and now we're 16 years later! You never know how it's going to pan out, so I feel like one of the lucky ones.

What advice would you have for your younger co-stars starting out at Corrie?

It's simple – just enjoy it. Don't be late, learn your lines, and make the most of it!

SNEAK PREVIEW!

"We're filming something exciting next week, out on location. The babies will soon be coming into the world and potentially it could be pretty iconic Corrie. It's definitely not going to be your usual kind of birth! We'll just have to wait and see whether Ches and Gemma will get back together, though. The viewers would like it as they'd make a nice little family, but you never really know the way things might go. Kids can sometimes have the opposite effect, so we'll see what happens..."

TINA O'BRIEN Sarah Platt

She was the anchor of the Street's first teen pregnancy storyline – when she joined the cobbles to play Sarah in 1999 – and Tina O'Brien has since grown up on Corrie. However, the days of gymslip mum 'Sarah-Lou' are long gone, with Gail's daughter now oozing confidence and sass after binning off Gary, taking control of Underworld – and hooking up with Adam! Tina has much to feel proud of, including a nomination for Best Actress...

So, Tina... you're officially the envy of millions now that Sarah is dating Adam Barlow!

She's done all right, hasn't she? Actually, I was genuinely upset at first – not because I would be working with Sam [Robertson, who plays Adam], but because me and Mikey [North, aka Gary] had worked together for three-and-a-half years – and it really did feel like the end of a relationship! But within seconds of working with Sam, I was like, "Oh, this will be fine – see ya, Mikey!"

Brutal! How did Mikey feel about that rejection?

Ha ha! Well, I went into the green room wearing one of Sarah's new little outfits while Mikey was filming Gary going nuts in the woods [killing loan shark Rick Neelan]. He said, "You look very nice – why are you all dressed up like that?" I told him, "I'm off on a date with Adam!" Then Mikey said, "They didn't dress you like that when you were going out with Gary!"

You and Sam had some steamy scenes to navigate very quickly into Sarah and Adam's relationship. Was it nerve-wracking to film?

I'll be honest, the first hour was a bit awkward as they were literally our first scenes. It was kind of like, "Hi Sam, we've never really talked before but erm... Action!" – with lots of kissing in front of a crew of about 30! But within an hour, it was fine to the point that I joked with Sam that kissing him was easier than talking to him, as I didn't have to learn any lines! He is a really lovely guy.

“Sarah has found her confidence – and I love it!”

Congratulations on your real-life wedding [to Adam Crofts] last year! Did you have a lovely honeymoon in Italy?

Aw, thank you – it was amazing! We booked a private helicopter to take us from the airport to Positano. We flew over the Amalfi Coast before landing in this farmer's field, and were greeted with limoncello. I'll probably never do it again, but as it was our honeymoon we thought, 'Let's go for it'!

Would you like Sarah and Adam to get married in Corrie?

It would be amazing, because I'd love to bring the Barlows and Platts together. They're the two big families on the Street – a bit like the Capulets and the Montagues in Romeo And Juliet! But in regards to filming a wedding, it's not as fun as it looks when you're stood there in a dress that you've been wearing for three weeks solid. If Adam and Sarah want to marry, they ought to elope!

Speaking of the Platts, that was an eventful family holiday you all took together!

Oh, I know! The best bit was that myself, Jack P Shepherd [David], Ben Price [Nick], Julia Goulding [Shona] and Lucy Fallon [Bethany] booked ourselves into those lodges for real and stayed there. We had our own hot tub!

Is it hard to keep a straight face when filming Platt family scenes?

It's usually Helen [Worth, who plays Gail] who can't, which is hilarious, because you think of her as the mother of the family. She'll just start cracking up, and not be able to get through a scene without laughing.

What have you enjoyed most about playing the new sassy side of Sarah?

I really love that she's found her confidence and some self-belief that she is capable of doing things. Sarah has always been Gail's daughter, and very much the youngster of the family who had a child while young – and I think that weighed heavily on her shoulders. But since taking charge of Underworld, Sarah's been able to show that she can manage if she needs to.

You're up against Alison King (Carla) and Katie McGlynn (Sinead) in the Best Actress category. Are you confident?

Oh, I wouldn't vote for me! I'm in love with Ali, and if she'd let me marry her, I would. I think she walks into a room and men just go [makes a jaw-dropping face]. She has such wonderful charisma on screen, too. And Katie has been so incredible with Sinead's cancer story that I'm at the point where I'm struggling to watch her on screen, because she is so believable. It has been so heartbreaking! I think they are both amazing actresses and, when I'm drunk, I tell them both often!

SNEAK PREVIEW!

"Sam and I filmed our first on-screen argument as Adam and Sarah this morning! I think Sarah is going to get a bit fed up as his feud with Gary continues. From her point of view, it's a battle of the egos between the two boys, and Adam needs to stop focusing on Gary and concentrate on Sarah. So, it's going to be quite tricky, and will end up putting a lot of pressure on their relationship..."

PEAKY BLINDERS | BBC1 SUN & MON

BRUM AS YOU ARE!

CILLIAN MURPHY AND HELEN MCCRORY ARE BACK AS THE FAMILY FACES ANOTHER NEW THREAT...

The previous series of Peaky Blinders ended with Tommy and his crew seeing off a challenge from the Mafia and Tommy getting elected into parliament – in other words, they were left in a pretty strong position. So as the fifth series begins this weekend, where do we find them? Well, they're enjoying the spoils of their success – before being brought back down to earth by the Wall Street Crash...

"Michael returns from America in the first episode," reveals Cillian Murphy, who plays Tommy. "He's responsible for them losing a lot of money, so I think that sets up quite a big conflict within the family."

"We find Polly enjoying her riches and enjoying the success of the Peakys," adds Helen McCrory, who plays her. "And then within moments we have the stock crash, everything's lost and she's back... not on the streets again, but definitely in defence, in punching and fighting mode. Which is where I think Polly is happiest."

Political figure: But how does Tommy plan to use his new powers?

I don't think tea parties or the hat brigade are her thing!"

PARTY ANIMALS

While the stock market crash spells bad news for the Shelby gang, it also provides an opportunity for them to capitalise on the misfortune of others – which is what they do best, after all. But there's a bigger threat looming on the horizon for Tommy, as his parliamentary duties bring him into the path of real historical figure (and future fascist leader) Oswald Mosley.

Shady lady: Polly is forced to return to her old criminal ways

"The Mafia last year was a pretty conventional threat, albeit a dangerous one, whereas this is a whole other level," shares Cillian. "Tommy has to employ a new set of tools to battle with an ideology, as opposed to a physical threat. I think Tommy's predicting another world conflict – he sees what Oswald's values are and what that could lead to. But Sam [Clafin, who plays him] knocks it out of the park – it's a very challenging role to play, given what that man represented, and he does it brilliantly!"

"You realise that Tommy Shelby starts to use politics in the same way that he used money, horses, or bootlegging alcohol," explains Helen. "It's just another currency –

“THERE'S A BIG CONFLICT WITHIN THE FAMILY...” CILLIAN

Loser: Michael is responsible for a big financial loss

KEVIN McNALLY AND ROBERT BATHURST ARE AMONG THE STARS BRINGING THE MISSING EPISODES TO LIFE...

information becomes a currency. But I think you do feel that, when I read it, Tommy is trying to do good. Even if his intention is bad, his actions are good – so then it's for the audience to decide if they're valid."

SWITCHING SIDES

The programme has gone from strength to strength since it first hit our screens in 2013, and its success has been rewarded with a move to BBC1, in the prime Sunday night spot. So how do the cast feel about being part of such a big success?

"We don't know how that happened!" chuckles Cillian. "There are fans the world over, in every country I go to. People have Peaky Blinders weddings, Peaky Blinders parties – it's mad!"

"It's a phenomenon, it's extraordinary," agrees Helen. "Everywhere you go, you're asked, 'When's it coming out again?' And I'm never like, 'Do you mean Fearless? Do you mean MotherFatherSon? Are you talking about my next Greek tragedy at the National?' I know what they're talking about!"

Dad's Army remains one of Britain's most beloved sitcoms and a reliable ratings winner for both BBC2 and Gold – not bad for a show that finished production in 1977. However, there's a small gap in the archives, as three of the six episodes from the second series have been lost.

Until now, anyway, as UKTV is remaking those three missing episodes using the original scripts and sticking as faithfully as possible to the format. They did, of course, need a new cast, and selected Kevin McNally as Captain Mainwaring, Robert Bathurst as Wilson, Kevin Eldon as Jones, David Hayman as Frazer, Mathew Horne as Walker, Timothy West as Godfrey and Tom Rosenthal as Pike. Inside TV caught up with the new cast during rehearsals...

What was your reaction when you heard about this project?

Robert I misheard it and thought it was remaking existing shows, which I didn't think was a good idea! But when it was explained to me about the lost episodes, then it seemed like a very good idea and it had some sort of value and purpose to it.

Mathew There's always trepidation with something like this, but it's an honour. They're the original scripts – not new episodes – so that helps. It's better to make it than to not make it. It's for the fans.

How did you approach taking on these much-loved characters?

Tom We can't replicate them, but we have talked about being understudies for the actors that actually played the parts, so in as much as we can encapsulate the mannerisms of the performers we try to. The tone of this is an ode, or a homage.

Kevin E I would like to have tried to make the viewer think you had superimposed the real one in, although you can only look and sound like the original so much. I can't make my face actually do the real Clive Dunn shapes – I have attempted it, but I just ended up giving myself face ache!

David The show is deliciously over-the-top, but Frazer was even more so than the rest of them. At times his performance is positively pantomimic! I'm allowed to be over-the-top for the first time in years!

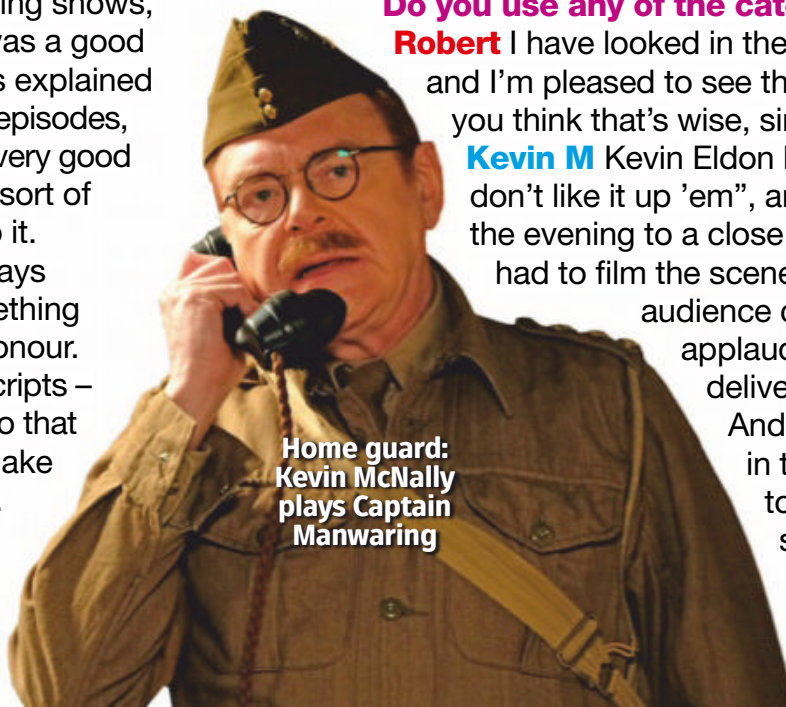

Do you use any of the catchphrases?

Robert I have looked in the next script, and I'm pleased to see there's a "Do you think that's wise, sir?"

Kevin M Kevin Eldon had "They don't like it up 'em", and it brought the evening to a close for a while. We had to film the scene again as the audience cheered and applauded when he delivered the line! And I'm intending in the last episode to slip in a "You stupid boy..."

SANDITON | ITV SUNDAY

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

ROSE WILLIAMS STARS IN AN ADAPTATION OF JANE AUSTEN'S INCOMPLETE MANUSCRIPT...

You may be wondering why, amid all the Pride And Prejudices, Sense And Sensibilities and Emmas, you haven't seen many adaptations of Jane Austen's Sanditon. But there's a very good reason for that: she died before she could finish it, and only 11 chapters of the book were completed. However, award-winning screenwriter Andrew Davies has taken on the job of continuing the story for this eight-part adaptation, starring Rose Williams as Austen's final heroine, Charlotte Heywood. Inside TV chatted to Rose on set to find out what we can expect...

How does it feel to play a Jane Austen heroine?

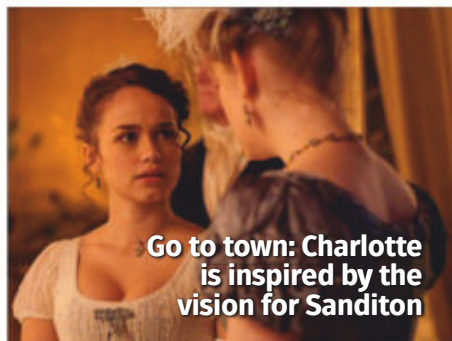

It's great! It's not something I ever expected – it all came as such a surprise, and every day I still have that kind of 'wow!' feeling when looking around the set. Charlotte's a bit more modern than the heroines you've seen before. She's headstrong, she's been raised on a farm, and she's the eldest of 12 children. Charlotte has grown up taking care of the children and working on the farm, which has given her a strong moral backbone.

Charlotte is invited along to Sanditon after coming to the rescue of Tom Parker, who is building the town. What does she make of it?

It's a whole new world. She's never come across the upper class – these are all characters she had imagined existing, but had never seen in real life. So when she meets them, it's not quite what she expected. She's witness to dysfunction she's not seen before – yet it's also a dream come true to escape her more basic way of life.

Go to town: Charlotte is inspired by the vision for Sanditon

WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE? | BBC1 WEDNESDAY

POWER UP

PAUL MERTON CLEARS THE FOG AROUND HIS FAMILY HISTORY...

Paul Merton's traceable family tree doesn't extend far – his mum was fostered as a baby in Ireland and knew little about her birth family, and his dad's side is also hard to pin down. Even so, it's taken a while for him to accept the call of Who Do You Think You Are?...

"They asked me to do it in the first series, but I mentioned it to my parents and they weren't too keen on the idea," Paul tells Inside TV. "But they died about five years ago, and towards the end of last year I thought maybe it was time to revisit it."

Paul's search begins with one of the few pieces of family history that he does know about – his maternal grandad James Power who, legend has it, died at sea.

Family matters: Paul with his late parents

What sets Charlotte apart from other Austen heroines?

For me, it's the fact that she's inspired by Tom Parker's vision of building this town. She's interested in architecture and the way in which he's bringing his vision to fruition. Her focus isn't on finding a husband, and her romantic arc is that love finds her rather than being her top priority – for me, that was really refreshing.

"I didn't know anything about his earlier life," shares Paul. "So I was piecing it together from the times he came across officialdom – when he was in the Army, or when he was arrested for riotous behaviour."

Paul points out that he didn't find out anything till it was revealed to him on camera. But he felt quite comfortable that way...

"Being by nature an improviser, I was happy with that," he shares. "You have to be ready for anything – you might think it will all be honourable citizens who were never in trouble with the law, but you don't know!"

THE LATEST TV NEWS...

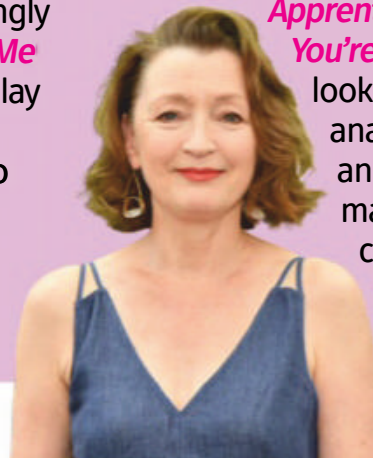

SUITABLY CAST

BBC1 has commissioned a six-part adaptation of Vikram Seth's novel A Suitable Boy. Newcomer Tanya Maniktala will star in the main role of Lata, a young woman coming of age in 1950s India.

LUCKY SAVE

Mum star Lesley Manville will be joining Lennie James, Suranne Jones and Stephen Graham in series two of Sky One's Bafta-winning drama Save Me – cunningly titled Save Me Too. She'll play Jennifer, a woman who is forced to make an impossible choice...

FIRED UP

Comedian Tom Allen will be taking over as the host of BBC2's The Apprentice: You're Fired. "I'm looking forward to analysing, satirising and celebrating the many 'interesting' choices the candidates make," shares Tom.

THE ROB RINDER VERDICT | Channel 4 FRIDAY

PASSING JUDGEMENT

ROB RINDER STEPS OUT FROM BEHIND THE BENCH FOR AN OPINIONATED NEW SERIES...

We know him primarily for doling out justice (and scathing put-downs) on ITV's Judge Rinder – but Rob Rinder is expanding his horizons beyond the legal system in this new four-part series. Each week, he'll be giving us his unfiltered take on current events, and searching for things that could make the world a better place...

"We're going to explore what's interesting around the world, in the way that Clive James used to," Rob tells Inside TV.

"You're going to be finding out what's happening politically around the globe. And there will be a round-up of the week where we're going to ask a general question, 'Is this making the world better or worse?'"

Beyond that, the show will also see Rob throwing himself into scenarios well outside of his usual remit – as he heads off with an open mind to try other ways of living on for size.

"It's about me experiencing them, and then sort of throwing it open," reveals Rob. "And then at the end, these people will be asked the sort of tough questions I'd ask anybody at a dinner party. I'm not interested in small talk, I'm terrible at it – I want to know straight away, 'Tell me the most embarrassing thing in your life!' It's a sort of chat show-satire hybrid, I reckon it's fair to say – it's my inquiry into the world!"

Judgement day: Rob explores various topics

WHO WANTS TO BE A MILLIONAIRE? | ITV 9.10PM

The money man

Jeremy Clarkson is back for a brand-new run of millionaire-making, to see if we can banish away the autumn blues for a few select people by massively bolstering their bank accounts. As usual, the contestants can get assistance by removing two wrong answers, asking the audience or phoning a friend, or asking Jeremy himself. But he's got some advice for anyone thinking of doing that.

"Research me!" he shares. "There's nothing you can do about Ask The Audience, you've chosen your Phone A Friend, 50/50 is what it is. The only one that's verifiable is me. If it's about the 1981 Volkswagen Golf GTI, I'm your man. Or about 1970s prog rock band Curved Air. One guy asked me about fashion – I know Levi's, and that's it!"

ALBERT: SECRETS OF A VICTORIAN HERO | Channel 4 8PM

It took some time for the nation to accept Prince Albert as the husband of Queen Victoria, due in no small part to significant anti-German sentiment across the country. However, new material that is set to be released online soon reveals that he actually played a vital role in shaping Victorian Britain. In this documentary, Professor Saul David uses Albert's private papers from the Royal Archives to illustrate the many ideas that Albert had which cemented his reputation as a forward-thinker who left an indelible mark on the nation, as well as his considerable impact on international relations.

A BLACK AND WHITE KILLING: THE CASE THAT SHOOK AMERICA | BBC2 9PM

Killer questions

The city of Portland, Oregon, has a reputation as one of the most liberal and progressive cities in America. Yet in 2017, it was the scene of a crime that prompted major questions to be asked about the state of race relations and white supremacy in the US, as journalist Mobeen Azhar investigates in this two-part documentary.

Aged 19, Larnell Bruce Jr was knocked down and killed by Russell Courtier outside a convenience store in Portland, and the question that a jury had to answer was: did Courtier, a member of white supremacist group European Kindred, kill Bruce because he was black? Mobeen heads to Portland to meet witnesses and members of both families, and explore the city's neo-Nazi underbelly.

Early edition

POLDARK | BBC1 8PM

This is an Inside TV public service announcement: Poldark moves to 8pm tonight to make way for the new series of Peaky Blinders at 9pm, and the final episode of the series (and, as far as we know, the last episode ever) will be on at 8.30pm tomorrow night. In tonight's penultimate episode, Ross finds out about the national security threat posed by Merceron and heads to London with Dwight, Caroline and Kitty in tow to put a stop to it. And in tomorrow's finale, Demelza is dismayed by Ross' refusal to involve her in his plans, while the fate of Cornwall may rest upon the hope of George doing the right thing...

EXPEDITION WITH STEVE BACKSHALL | Dave 8PM

It's just another day at the office for Steve Backshall, if your understanding of the word "office" involves dense rainforest, sheer cliff faces and waterlogged caves. (And if that's the case, you should probably talk to your HR rep, because something's not right.) He and his team are in Indonesian Borneo, in search of unmapped caves that might just hold extremely important historical artefacts within them.

S.W.A.T. | Sky One 9PM

Dozens of DNA evidence kits have been nicked from an LAPD crime lab, so the SWAT team are dispatched to recover them and find the sticky-fingered crooks responsible. Meanwhile, Deacon's money worries are causing him stress.

FALSE FLAG | Fox 9PM

The conspiracy thriller continues as Anat and Amir discover that there's another suspect in the frame, so they attempt to find out more about who Dikla is. But there's further trouble in store for Amir when his picture is leaked to the media...

MIDSOMER MURDERS | ITV 8.30PM

Try, try again

What do rugby and chocolate have in common? Well, apart from the fact that we've been known to inhale a family-size Fruit & Nut while watching the Six Nations, they both play a key part in the latest mystery for Barnaby and Winter. The first victim is Mark Adler, owner of the Causton Lions rugby club, who's found frozen to death (or "turned into a human lolly", as Fleur puts it) inside his own cryotherapy chamber. Turns out the deceased made himself quite unpopular in certain corners after making some dramatic changes to the team.

Things also weren't great in Mark's marriage to bespoke chocolatier Samantha (Tamzin Outhwaite) – so could it be a coincidence when a second body is found in her shop?

AMUSICAL | Comedy Central 9PM

Who knew there were so many comedians secretly hankering to belt out showtunes? In this one-off special, Jayde Adams and Kiri Pritchard-McLean will be giving themselves and their pals a chance to live out their fantasy with “a night of musical theatre performed by people who couldn’t get into their school plays...and some of them were home-educated.” Look out for Frank Skinner’s memorable take on Annie.

INSTINCT | Sky Witness 9PM

The moreish crime drama with Alan Cumming as Dr Dylan Reinhart – a professor turned police consultant – returns for a second season tonight. Dylan’s latest case is the murder of a businesswoman who was trying to extend human life...

SUCCESSION | Sky Atlantic 9PM

Logan’s latest big idea is a plan to acquire rival media company Pierce – but Shiv thinks this is an absolutely terrible idea. It’s poor Tom, however, who has to tell Logan she disapproves, while at a corporate retreat in Hungary. Good luck, Tom.

THE GREAT BRITISH BAKE OFF | Channel 4 8PM

Whole lotta oven

Britain's most famous marquee is back on the green as Sandi Toksvig and Noel Fielding invite another bunch of home bakers to have their wares appraised by Paul Hollywood and Prue Leith. There's a bit of a twist in the set-up for series 10 too: for the first time since series four, there are 13 contestants (a baker's dozen, if you will) instead of the usual 12. In other words: there will be a double elimination at some point...

And while that's doubtless playing on the minds of this year's bakers, for now they're just fighting not to be the first contestant booted out. We begin with Cake Week, and the first challenge is to make a fruit cake, with several bakers busting out tried and trusted family recipes.

And from the warmth of the oven to the chill of the open water we go, as this new four-part series follows 11 celebrities training for a relay swim across the English Channel to raise money for Stand Up To Cancer. The stars – including Corrie's Sair Khan (Alya), Hollyoaks' Rachel Adedeji (Lisa), Linford Christie, Greg Rutherford and, yes, Arg from TOWIE again – will be trained by leading figures from the world of swimming including Olympic medallist Keri-anne Payne and Ross Edgley (pictured), the first person to swim around Britain. Tonight, they face a bracing 500m swim in Lake Windermere.

THE AFFAIR | Sky Atlantic 9PM

There were some pretty major shifts during the fourth season of The Affair – not least the shocking death of Alison, played by Ruth Wilson – but that all feels like small potatoes compared to what’s lined up for this fifth and final season. Anna Paquin joins the show for a storyline set decades in the future as Joanie, the now-adult daughter of Alison and Cole, on a mission to find out what happened to her mother.

HARROW | Alibi 9PM

Harrow and Grace investigate the potentially suspicious death of a popular wellness vlogger who was advocating a non-traditional treatment for cancer. Meanwhile, Harrow frets about how deeply his nemesis has entangled his daughter, Fern.

WARRIOR | Sky One 10PM

The martial arts period drama (now there’s a genre mash-up we’d love to see more of) ends its first season tonight. Ah Sahn has rejected his warrior roots and is enmeshed in the Chinese working-class underworld, but can Chao talk him round?

KEVIN'S GRANDEST DESIGN | Channel 4 9PM

Home comforts

Can you believe that Grand Designs has been on our screens for 20 years? That's a heck of a lot of bricks, even taking into account the various free-thinkers who built their homes entirely out of wood or straw...hang on, that wasn't Grand Designs, was it? That was the three little pigs.

Anyway, to celebrate this big anniversary, host Kevin McCloud will be revealing his five favourite projects from the past two decades – but he couldn't decide on an overall standout.

"I had a top 50, then a top 30, then I thought 'oh no, there's probably about 80'," he admits. "I refused to be drawn, which is the best way. One's favourite is always going to depend on the day, your mood, whether there's a good pub locally..."

DEEP WATER | ITV 9PM

After Guy's attack on Nelson Carter, Joanne brings him in for questioning about his violent temper and whether that may have played a part in Lucinda's disappearance which, needless to say, doesn't go down very well with him. Meanwhile, after an awkward encounter with Adam at the school gates, Lisa makes the most of the chance to unburden herself to Roz about what happened in the bathroom at Kate's dinner party, and how she needs to come clean to Joe about it. Yet Roz thinks that if it didn't mean anything, she should keep it to herself – but doesn't let on just why she feels that way...

OUTLANDER | More4 9PM

After their long quest to be reunited, and an obligatory catch-up period of the “so, what were you doing while we were two centuries apart?” variety, Claire and Jamie return to Lallybroch tonight. –

However, Claire doesn’t quite get the reception she was expecting, and soon has to confront the harsh realities of the choices that Jamie made while the two of them were separated. We suppose that’s just par for the course in a long time/distance relationship...

DER PASS | Sky Atlantic 9PM

Ellie and Gedeon set a trap for the killer tonight, with the help of cultist Brunner – but in doing so, they enter into a legal grey area. Speaking of professional boundaries being violated, Ellie has also begun an affair with her superior...

FOR THE PEOPLE | Sky Witness 10PM

The penultimate episode of the earnest legal drama sees Kate and Sandra going up against each other on a bank robbery case, testing their relationship in the process. Meanwhile, Tina offers Roger some advice on his relationship with Jill.

THIS WAY UP | Channel 4 10PM

Sister act

Perhaps it's a bit too early to be talking about next year's Baftas, but This Way Up makes a very convincing case for itself to take home the Best Comedy award with a single scene tonight: the moment in which, during an impromptu family talent show, Aisling Bea and Sharon Horgan perform an a cappella version of Zombie by The Cranberries – and according to Aisling, we should count ourselves lucky they managed to film it at all.

"We found it really hard not to laugh," she admits. "There wasn't that much footage to use! It got to the point where we were annoyed that we were laughing, and everyone else in the room was annoyed we were laughing, because we had to go home! It was a laughter we didn't want in our faces..."

FALLING INN LOVE | Netflix

Nothing hits Inside TV’s sweet spot more than a made-for-TV romcom riddled with clichés, so we thought Christmas had come early when we spotted this one. Former pop star Christina Milian plays Gabriela Diaz, a corporate executive who wins an inn in an internet competition(!) only to discover that it’s in New Zealand(!!) and it’s a total wreck(!!!). After an awkward encounter, she hires a handsome local handyman to help her fix it up while the sexual tension simmers away.

CELEBS GO DATING: THE FINALE | E4 9PM

The celebrities’ four-week long quest for love comes to a close tonight, but have they all found what they’re looking for? Well, we’ll find out as Tom throws a lavish party to celebrate their romantic outcomes. But who will be Nathan’s plus-one?

BRASSIC | Sky One 10PM

There’s not just one but two threats to Vinnie’s life this week, as he volunteers to take Ashley’s place in a bare knuckle fight and Terence McCann is still out to settle a score over the Shetland pony farrago. Can he survive both?

WORLD'S MOST LUXURIOUS TRAIN | Channel 5 8PM

The line of beauty

Last Friday Channel 5 launched a new series giving us a glimpse at life on board the world's most expensive cruise ship, and while that continues tonight at 9pm, this series allows us to sample some high-end experiences even if the sight of the open ocean gives you a severe case of the collywobbles.

Tonight's instalment is all about the most luxurious train journey which, surprisingly, is not Northern Rail's Pacer service between Leeds and Huddersfield but South Africa's five-star Blue Train service, where the 40-hour trip from Pretoria to Cape Town costs upwards of £2,600. Pricy, yes, but your money gets you a 24-hour butler service, bespoke linen and the chance to have a soak in a private bath.

A novel idea

HOLD THE SUNSET | BBC1 9PM

Phil's finally had an offer on his house! It's some long-overdue good news for him and Edith, and it means they can finally set a date for the wedding. They're not the only couple looking to walk down the aisle though as Dugdale makes a (sort of) surprise proposal to Sandra, who quite likes the idea of pipping her mum and Phil to the post. Meanwhile, Wendy's children's book The Lemming Family is receiving rave reviews and selling well, which would be good news if it weren't for the fact that she's based it transparently on her former in-laws and while some of them laugh it off (and Queenie's got a free pizza out of it), some are quite cross.

CARNIVAL ROW | Amazon Prime Video

As we reported two weeks ago, Amazon seems confident it's on to a winner with this new fantasy drama, because it's ordered a second season before the first one had been released. Finally we can see what it had up its sleeves as we step into an alternate Victorian era where humans and mythological creatures co-exist uneasily. Orlando Bloom and Cara Delevingne play star-crossed lovers...

THE DARK CRYSTAL: AGE OF RESISTANCE | Netflix

Meanwhile, Netflix is serving up this long-awaited prequel to Jim Henson's cult classic film from 1982. When the evil Skeksis corrupts the Crystal of Truth, a trio of Gelflings inspire a rebellion to save their world of Thra from the darkness.

BBC PROMS: HOMAGE TO NINA... | BBC4 10.25PM

Conductor Jules Buckley leads this tribute to singer, songwriter and activist Nina Simone at London's Royal Albert Hall. The set list includes all her biggest hits including Feeling Good, I Put A Spell On You, and My Baby Just Cares For Me.

IN and OUT

We spin soap's revolving door...

BROOKE VINCENT AND FAYE BROOKES (Sophie Webster and Kate Connor, Corrie)

OUT It seems that these two Corrie faves will make their exit from the soap together. While Faye has decided to explore pastures new, Brooke is heading off on maternity leave for the birth of her first child. According to reports, Sophie – having grown tired of her life on the Street – will decide to join Kate to go travelling in the Far East, and the pals will head off into the sunset together.

Autumn

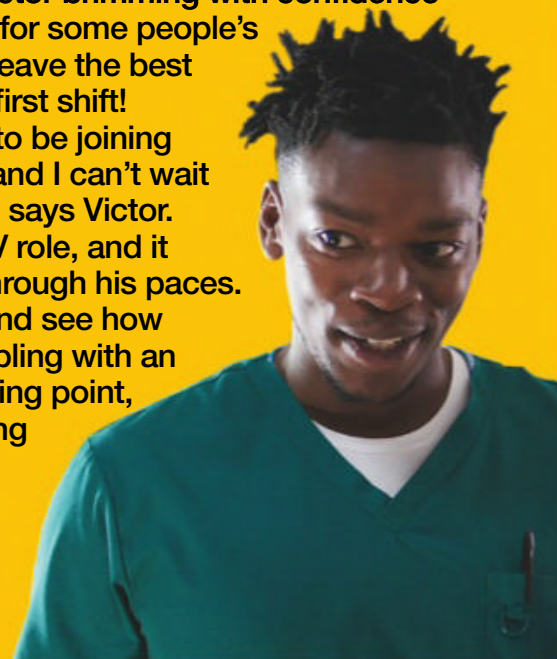

JAKE QUICKENDEN (Woody, Hollyoaks)

IN Reality star Jake's role on Hollyoaks has been confirmed, and he has already been filming alongside Steph Waring (Cindy) – who he competed against in Dancing On Ice in 2018 – for scenes to feature in the show's big autumn 'stunt week'. "It's very exciting, and it's a privilege to join Hollyoaks," he says of his role. "It's nice to arrive somewhere new and know someone like Steph too – she's made it really easy to fit in." October

VICTOR OSHIN (Mason Reede, Casualty)

IN Mason arrives on the wards this week as a junior doctor brimming with confidence – perhaps too much for some people's liking – and doesn't leave the best impression after his first shift! "I am super-excited to be joining the Casualty family, and I can't wait to start this journey," says Victor. This is his first big TV role, and it seems he'll be put through his paces. "We'll have to wait and see how Mason gets on grappling with an NHS at critical breaking point, which is the overriding theme of this new series," says Simon Harper, the show's executive producer. This week

THE EX FILES

Your update on the one-time stars of soap...

ANDY VISITS THE DOCTOR!

Corrie's Andy McDonald is making a comeback on rival soap Doctors. Actor Nick Cochrane, who first played Andy back in 1989, has filmed an episode of the daytime soap, playing a local businessman who gets in too deep with a gangster. Meanwhile, Angela Wynter – aka Patrick's former wife Yolande in EastEnders – will appear as Cerys, who runs into trouble trying to spice up her love life!

BACK TO THE DALES?

Former Emmerdale star Mark Jordon, who played Daz Spencer in the soap until last year, has said he hopes the door might be open for him to return following his 'not guilty' verdict in an assault case recently. "The opportunity possibly to go back is something I am holding dear to," he told Good Morning Britain. The actor was cleared of the charges, and also said of the ordeal, "It was the weirdest time of my life. I had a reputation as a good character and to be labelled villainous, it turns you upside down."

LUCY-JO'S NAPPY NEWS!

Former Corrie and Hollyoaks star Lucy-Jo Hudson (Katy Harris on the Street and Donna-Marie in Hollyoaks) has revealed she's pregnant with her second child. The actress – who has a five-year-old daughter, Sienna, with Corrie's Alan Halsall (Tyrone) – took to social media to announce that she and partner Lewis Devine are expecting. "We are 13 weeks pregnant and so very excited to extend our little family," she said. "Sienna is so excited to be a big sister, and Lewis is ecstatic to become a daddy for the first time."

HITS & MISSES!

WHAT'S HIT & BULLSEYE RECENTLY – AND WHAT'S FALLEN WIDE OF THE MARK?

We just don't believe that Robert would ever be this deceptive and manipulative. He's too square!

We were intrigued by this local newspaper headline in EastEnders. Love at first bite? Are there vampires on loose? We hope this is the big Christmas storyline!

Here's a sight for sore eyes: Peter and Carla loving life and each other again – footloose and drama-free. Bless them! We give it four weeks!

This stranger's sacrifice – dying so that Emma and Steve's storyline can live – will not be in vain. Don't worry, Mr Wotsisname – we'll be dining out on this plot for years.

BULLSEYE!

The Highway brothers in EastEnders are a tribute to the dark arts of the soap scriptwriter – so skilfully have they been rewritten into whole new characters. Formerly deranged Stuart is now the Square's everyman hero, while a pile of old love letters has provided vital backstory to Callum's swiftly repurposed sexuality. We're not complaining... We vastly prefer Stuart and Callum v2.0!

Oh, Monty. We've never seen a look more loaded with silent disapproval.

The set for Tall Trees in Emmerdale is no place for a family as big as this. Everyone ends up having conversations standing in a weird, uncomfortable chorus line.

How, exactly, is Phil Mitchell still alive? He's been stitched back together more times than Frankenstein's monster. He should leave his body to medical science... Or 'Ripley's Believe It Or Not!'.

Once you spot Doctor Who's Tardis lurking in the background of the Woolpack, you can't not see it.

At a real stretch, we can just about force ourselves to get on board with Honey knowing about Adam's affair and sweeping it under the carpet. But not when she looks this miserable, and he looks this smug.

In the latest instalment of 'Only in Walford': Ian, Max and Bobby are working in the same restaurant together. Both Max and Bobby have killed one of Ian's other children – one of them in the actual restaurant! A solid foundation for a partnership.

We were shocked by Jessie suddenly mouthing off at her neighbours. If we didn't already know her days were numbered, we would now!
